Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

PREAARE for the spring election.

CHOOSE good men to fill the borough offices.

IT is a pity that such men as Judge Kelly were born to die. The country is greatly the loser.

ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS refers to the "anguish of anatomy" in a truly touching way. Elizabeth has had the grip.

THERE IS A STATEMENT in the news of the day that a Scranton woman suffered total paralysis of the jaw while talking to a neighbor. A word to the wise is sufficient.

THE Silcott investigating committee have reported to the House that the Sergeant at Arms of the House is a legally authorized disbursing officer, and therefore responsible for the loss.

THE appointment of Congressman Harmer to the vacancy created by Mr. Kelley's death at the head of the Committee on Manufactures is agitated He represents a great manufacturing district.

THE democratic party celebrated old Andrew Jackson's birthday in spots on Wednesday. It would be interesting to have the sturdy patriot's opinion of the modern organization which pretends to train under the banner he followed.

SENATOR MORGAN'S bill providing for sending the colored people to Africa would doubtless have been entertained; had it been introduced in 1860. But there has been as great change in this country within the last thirty years, and the negro is here to stay.

WE are tired to death of hearing every person say, when speaking of the weather, "I never saw the like, etc." Why, bless your heart, we know you didn't and neither did anybody else but tell us what kind of weather you have seen. That will be a rest.

LA GRIPPE has taken a grip on the youthful king of Spain, Alfonso Leon Ferdinand Maria Jacob Isadore Pasquale Antoine, and it is more than probable that ere this he is lying cold in death, as at midnight, Friday night, all hope was given up by the attending physicians.

THE Democrats of Pennsylvania seem to be very much befuddled as to who it would be best to run for Governor. It makes very little difference, from a republican standpoint, who they run, as the campaign will undoubtedly be very Black for them to Wallace around in, even if they should put up Patterson.

NOT long since the Vermont Commissioner of Agriculture, oppressed with the weight of the fact that the State had a vast area of unoccupied farm lands of good quality, determined to advertise. He did so, and the result is that already he has received several thousand letters and made considerable sales. The tide of settlers is likely to take up its way to the Green Mountain State.

WHAT would the white politicians of the South, who propose to send the negro to Africa think should the negroes retaliate by proposing to send them as far as possible to Greenland or some other inhospitable country? There would be as much equity and right in the one suggestion as the other. The colored have as good a right to live in the South as the white people.

THE objection to Senator-elect Brice and other men of wealth who are rapidly making the United States senate an aristocratic club is not that they are rich, but that they have no qualification for the exalted position to which they have been elected, and that they owe their ability and patriotism, but to their money. To oppose a man simply because he is a millionaire is absurd as well as unjust, and no right-thinking American would be guilty of such folly. But the people have a right to complain when those who have never displayed the most rudimentary sign of statesmanship are elevated over the heads of able citizens and set to shape our government and fashion our laws, and if they failed to complain it would be a sign that they are far gone on the road to national decadence.

WILLIAM D. KELLY.

Judge Kelley died, as he had lived, in the harness. For 30 years death would have found him conspicuous in the public life of the State, for half that time he has led his delegation; for ten years he has been the accepted leader of the Republican majority at Washington. His career for a generation has given visible refutation to the frequent falsehood that public life offers neither permanency or usefulness, that it is open to the rich and closed to the poor, that districts drop tried servants for new candidates, that parties and voters alike are unsparing in punishing independence in speech and principle.

Judge Kelley was a poor man and for nearly half a century he never entered a canvas without winning. As a young lawyer, he prosecuted and convicted popular offenders; in middle age he faced party clamor on the bench in deciding against his party in a contested election case, returning to active politics he took up the anti-slavery cause when cowardly mayors were closing halls dedicated to its discussion, later in life he advocated inflation when it was condemned by his own party, but none of these things turned voters from him. The people knew his sincerity, his honesty and his public usefulness, and his district continued through good report and ill, whether on all points it agreed with him or differed from him, to return him to the seat which he has held for twenty-eight years.

A life like this is at once an inspiration and example. Doubtless it had its faults. What stormy life stretching through a generation of tempestuous times is without them? He was not always right. He espoused views which had the support of neither time nor truth. But his career as a whole and his work in all its parts was full of confidence in humanity, of patriotism, of trust in freedom, in the institutions of his country, and the development of her duties. His life had about it all that Americans love and hope long to see. His revolutionary ancestry, his poverty, his honest apprenticeship, his public life opened by a youthful speech in Faneuil Hall, his work in local politics, his rapid rise in the law from the prosecuting officer to the bench, and at length, a long unbroken career in Congress. which left him, as it found him poor, and, finding him full of honor left him full also of honors—these are all and each part of a typical American career.

Through it, Judge Kelley had the amazing good fortune to espouse cause after cause which he saw carried to triumphant success. The early labor agitation which reduced the old day of eleven and twelve hours to nine and ten, had in him an enthusiastic champion. The great anti-slavery cause early enlisted him and he shared in all its stages, until it was crowned with triumphant success. He faced mobs, North and South, knew the bodily peril of the defenders of Liberty, aided Lincoln's administration, supported the reconstruction of Stevens and defended at personal risk the Republicanism of the South when it went down in defeat. Lastly, and, it is for this his memory will be revered by his State, through thirty years he was the eloquent, consistent and successful advocate of Protection. He brought to its support high eloquence, persuasive logic, minute and exhaustive technical acquaintance with the subject and an abiding faith in the success of the great cause. He lived to see it triumphant and what to him—as to all Protectionists and dearer than mere triumph—his aging and closing years saw the industries Protection had fostered linking by common interests the North and the South. The cause of Union, of Liberty and of Protection, to which he gave his years, had won a common triumph when Judge Kelley, the champion of all three, met his great popuplar welcome in the iron district of Tennessee and Alabama.

The close of such a life has in it much of sorrow and sense of loss to the city which honored him and the party he served; but it has in it even more of encouragement and inspiration. With all its limitations, while our public life is open to such a career, the Republic is safe. It was easy while he lived, now and then, to condemn; it is easier now that his life has ended to see how high was its aim, how useful its service, how lofty its patriotism.

DOES THE GOVERNOR of Mississippi intend to colonize that State with pugilists? If not why this raid on Muldoon?

S. D. RAY FOR TAX COLLECTOR.

As the time approaches for the borough election it behooves the Republicans to look around to see whom best can serve the interest of the borough—the tax payer, if you please—in the different offices to which men shall this spring be elected to serve. Among these offices there is none more, if even of as great, importance as that of tax collector. This office has now been held for three consecutive terms by a democrat and although personally we have nothing to say against the man, yet it is a precedent of bad usage to elect one man to an office for so many terms.

Among the republicans in this borough there are none who would better fill the position of tax collector than just S. D. Ray, Esq. He is conscientious and just and in him the collection of the borough funds would be intrusted to hands that would discharge the duty as faithfully as it could be done.

The Republicans ought to, and can elect their man, if they come out and vote straight. Now is the time to organize so that when the election comes around there will be nothing to do but go up to the polls and vote and then come down town in the evening and hear the great big majority of Ray and all the other republican nominees.

Dr. Higbee's Successor.

Through the death of Dr. Higbee there is placed upon Governor Beaver the responsibility of selecting a state superintendent of public instruction for Pennsylvania. No commonwealth has greater wealth of material out of which to make a skillful educational leader, but it is even more fortunate in having one ready made. The educational interests of a state with more than a million school children are not only important, but intricate. For the past ten years the whole tendency has been toward harmony and efficiency, through the hearty cooperation of the eleven normal schools and sixty-six county superintendents, unnumbered school directors, and 25,000 teachers, with the office of state department.

The school interests of no state are in such a satisfactory condition, considering the amount of money paid the teachers, and the cheif need of the state is the continuance of this harmonious effort and consequent steady educational improvement. It is specially fortunate, therefore, that the state has in Deputy Henry Houck a man who has borne the burden of the work for fifteen years, who knows every detail of the office as one always knows the business that has grown up about him, who has been among the institute and normal schools more even than Dr. Higbee. He is a man whose geniality, vigor, good sense, and skill in public speech make available his knowledge of the school work and acquaintance with school men.—Journal of Education.

THE saloons of Bangor, Me., that have been running full blast since the passage of the Prohibition law as before it, have been closed this week and thousands of dollars worth of liquor that could not be shipped off in time to escape the officers, confiscated. The temperance people have been collecting evidence against the liquor interests for some time and will push suits against not only all who sold liquor but against all who let buildings for saloons, etc., which latter the Maine law holds equally guilty with the liquor seller. The result of this crusade will be watched with interest. If it is successful similar crusades may be expected against the liquor interest in the other towns of Maine, and prohibition cease largely to be the dead letter it is.

THE relentlessness with which Gov. Lowry, of Mississippi, is hunting down and bringing to punishment prize-fighters and their aiders and abettors is gaining him praise from all over the country. It is to be hoped that he will give the fighters and their aiders the full benefit of the law. While he is at punishing offenders against peace and good order he might direct some attention to the white citizens of his State who beat and kill negroes. To arrest men in distant States and send them to prison or fine them for giving each other black eyes or sore ribs, or watching and urging on others to do the eye-blacking and rib-punching, and to ignore the clubbing almost to death, of inoffensive blacks by armed whites, will appear painfully inconsistent.

THAT PERPLEXING QUESTION.

With Delamater, Hastings, Montooth, Stone, and a half-dozen or so candidates of lesser public notoriety all aspirants for the nomination of the Republican party for Governor, it is certainly a perplexing question just who may ultimately knock the persimmons; at present Delmater and Hastings are conceded to be the two lead horses but just which one is on the nigh side it is difficult to tell. Very naturally the friends of both these gentlemen claim their man as standing the best chance, etc., but the whole truth in the matter is that no one knows the strength of the other.

With the corporation and monopolist Delamater undoubtedly stands in the lead, while with the popular masses Hastings is universally conceded to hold priority. The former makes no secret of his connection with a work of corporations, while who can tell of one instance in which General Hastings has favored the rich to the detriment of the poor. He is the working-man's friend; his sympathy and his work is always in their behalf. He has thus endeared himself to the entire population of Pennsylvania and now is the proper time to show a just appreciation of that esteem.

The question of location pales into insignificance before the acknowledged fitness of the man. What is there in location anyway? Suppose the interests of the citizens of Pennsylvania are best served by a man who does live in the same town the present incumbent of the position to which he aspires lives, why is it but natural that the question of location should be sunk out of sight and entirely ignored while the executive ability and universal fitness of the man should be the reason for his taking? and is not that more to be considered at all times than either name, connection or location?

There has never come up one question or emergency in the official life of General Hastings but what he always meet and discharged it to the full satisfaction of everybody. His official career is not blurred with one single mistake of his, and he at all times discharges his duty in a conscientious way that is justly characteristic of the man. The people of Pennsylvania desire a good executive leader for the next four years and General Hastings is just the man to choose.

SPEAKER REED'S VICTORY.

The two great parties in Congress, last Tuesday, locked horns on the adoption of rules. The issue was forced upon the House by a motion of Mr. McComas, of Maryland, to take up the district appropriation bill in the committee of the whole. Believing they had a sure thing the Democrats were glad to meet the issue and got whipped for their pains.

The far reaching results of this proposed revision of the rules has been pointed out from time to time in these columns. One outcome of the fight is likely to be of special value to the Democrats by way of a lesson not to attempt in the future to control the action of a body in which they have a minority. Parlimentary law is a subject which even the oldest members approach with a feeling akin to awe. Tuesday's battle was one that tested Speaker Reed's ability as a presiding officer There were times when less determined men would have hesitated which course was the best to pursue, but at no stage of the combat was the Speaker at a loss to know the proper thing to do. At times the debate was unusually exciting and the Democrats unusually noisy, but they soon found there was a man holding the reins of government in the House who would brook no nonsense.

After the battle had been fought and won the Republicans crowded about the Speaker's desk and congratulated him upon the masterly way in which he had carried his party to victory, and then congratulated one another for having selected him as Speaker.

THE coke-workers have presented their scale to the operators and the latter will shortly offer a scale to the men. There will be a difference of course between the two scales, but in all probability the difference will be removed and an agreement reached. There is a big demand for coke these days and the friendly spirit of operators and men indicates that both are desirous of taking advantage of it.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec., 13, 1890.

The House of Representatives mourns for its father, Judge Kelley, for thirty years a Representative from Pennsylvania, has gone to his last rest. Funeral services were held in the hall of the House on Saturday, after which the body was forwarded to his late home for interment. Judge Kelley will be sadly missed, and his place extremely difficult to fill. The title of "father of the House" now belongs to ex-Speaker Randall, who is still confined to his residence by illness.

The Senate Committee on the World's Fair has heard everything that the champions of the several cities had to say for their favorites, but what effect, if any, the learned arguments had on the Senators is not apparent to the naked eye. It is generally believed that the matter will be at once pushed to a final issue in both House and Senate. One thing can truly be said of the struggle for the location. It has made no bad blood, and wherever Congress may decide upon holding the Fair everybody is ready to pitch right in and make it a grand success—something worthy of America.

Secretaries Windom and Tracy both favor the transfer of the Revenue marine service from the Treasury to the Navy department. This makes it almost certain that the bill providing for the transfer, now before Congress, will become a law. It has been defeated in previous Congresses by the opposition of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Senator Quay and Adjutant General Hastings of Pennsylvania were visiting several of the departments here together on Saturday. That does not look much like the general was to be an anti-Quay candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in his state.

The Vice President put a quietus on the silly story of his not being on good terms with the President by giving an elaborate dinner to the President and Mrs. Harrison a few days ago.

No stock is taken here in the rumor of democratic defections in the Ohio legislature. Brice has paid for the goods and it is generally believed they will be delivered according to contract.

Speaker Reed said this morning that he thought the new Rules would be reported to the House sometime this week, unless there should be some unexpected cause for further delay.

Ex-Senator Kellogg, like most Southerners, regards Senator Morgan's scheme of sending the negroes to Africa at Government expense as a very foolish one, and says the solution of the problem will have to be looked for in other directions.

The tariff hearings before the House committee on Ways and Means are expected to end this week. They have already included about every industry intended, but chairman McKinley says nobody shall be excluded, and hearings may be had on application until the bill is reported to the House.

Mr. Wanamaker seems to have the proper idea of the relation that should exist between a member of the cabinet and the people, as represented in the House of Representatives. He told the members of the House--committee on Post offices and Post roads, who paid him a social visit, that he hoped they would call on him as often as they needed information on postal matters, and that there was nothing private in the business of his department.

The Senate committee on Territories will not report an omnibus bill. The majority is opposed to bills admitting Idaho and Wyoming.

Mrs. Gen. U. S. Grant is spending a few days with friends here. She is looking remarkably well, and says her health is excellent.

Representative Dollivar, of Iowa, says there is not the slightest doubt of Senator Allison's re-election.

WHEN BEN BUTLER ran for President on the labor ticket in 1884 about 5,000 workingmen votes for him in New York city were counted for CLEVELAND or thrown out altogether. With the Australian ballot system the fraud would have been impossible, yet BEN BUTLER is now howling against the Australian ballot system because offencive to the laboring men, he says. What new political scheme has he now in his head that prompts him to thus assail the best system for protecting weak parties and poor voters and ensuring fair elections ever devised?

GENERAL NOTES.

There have been 165 foxes caught and killed this season in and around South Akworth, N. H.

An old ladie, stamped 1748, conld hardly secure a bidder at a public vendue at Alburtis, Pa.

Paterson, N. J. has a club composed of young men who have an inordinate fondness for onions.

So far as known only one man in Easton celebrated Jackson's Day. He hung out two small flags at his residence.

In the Cape de le Hogue lighthouse in France a windmill is used to drive two dynamos, the current being stored in accumulators.

A new railway in Wisconsin is called "the Waukesha, Pewaukee, Oconomowoc and Easten." It must be hard to keep the cars on the track.

A scavenger of Los Angeles picked up a pair of trousers from a pile of driftwood last Saturday. He found $15 in the pockets and a silver watch.

There are 50 manufactories of imitation butter in Germany. A factory in Mannheim produces daily 6,000 pounds from a preparation of cocoanuts.

The Albany, N. Y., School Board has contracted with a local liveryman for conveyances to carry children living in the outskirts to the nearest school.

There were $100,000,000 worth of jewels worn at the New York New Year's ball, but not one was stolen, which says much for the honesty of the 1,400.

The Santa Maria (Cal,) Graphic now wants to exchange its paper subscription for stovewood, but draws its line sharply at hoop poles and pumpkins.

Having fallen asleep during service in church, a Williamsport boy slept on until midnight. In the meantime his frantic parents were searching the town for him.

Boys of Gold Hill, Nev., enjoy first-class coasting nowadays. They go from that town to Silver City, three miles, in five minutes. It takes them an hour to climb back.

Thomas Fitzsimmons, a young man at Pittston, has nearly finished a clock on which he has labored for four years, and which, he says, will prove a regular horological encyclopedia.

A Bay City man who passed a beer check on his wife instead of the 50 cents she asked for, is having a hard time to keep her from going home to her ma and applying for a divorce.

A tenor singer named Eichorn, in Cologne, was obliged to undergo a throat operation, and, while it was successful, it was found upon his recovery that his voice had changed to a baritone.

A Napa, Cal., woman lost one of her goldfish last Saturday morning, and did not find it until Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. She put the fish into the globe of water, and it swam off as lively as ever.

The last season of the pearl fishing in Ceylon was exceptionally successful. In 22 days 80 divers brought 11,000,000 oysters to the surface. The divers made about $32,000, and the Government $100,000.

A man who recently died in Wilmington, Del., gave $50 to his attending priest to be returned to the Farmers' Bank of that city, which amount he surreptitously secured in September, 1879, from the institution.

A novelty in road fixing can be seen on the old gravel pike near Byberry Pa., where rutabagas have taken the place of dirt or stone. Several cartloads have been hauled there to fill up the ruts and holes.

James Bortz, residing near Macungie, Pa., one day last week took a pair of boots to a cobbler for slight repairs. He stated that he had owned them for 19 years, but had used them only on Sundays and on special occasions.

On the roof of the new New York hospital building will be a garden, probably inclosed in glass, where patients can enjoy the cool breezes that blow over the housetops. Here there will be flowers, plants and aquarium, seats and hammocks.

"Old Towlion," a hermit who lives in Jack's Hollow, in the mountains near Williamsport, spends his time in digging around his wretched hut in search of gold. He has dug ten holes 15 feet deep, and his place looks like a yawning graveyard.

While the total wealth of Great Britain and Ireland is set down at $59,000,000,000, that of the United States is computed at $40,000,000,000. But while England pays in taxes $20 per head of population, the United States pays only $1.250.

The city of Rome seems to be an almost inexhaustible depository of interesting relics. Archeologists and students generally will be interested in the latest find, which is claimed to be nothing less than the pavement of the ancient temple of Jupiter.

Nellie and Hattie Cook, aged 14 and 16 years respectively, daughters of Lyman Cook, of Smith county, Kan., husked 1,000 bushels of corn for their father last fall, for which he paid $25, having agreed to pay them 2½ cents a bushel for all they would husk.

Conductor Kelly, who operates an electric car at Scranton, was engaged in making some repairs to the brushes a few days ago, when a bystander saw a ball of fire hovering over Kelly's head. Kelly was so stunned that he was unable to work any longer.

Our Story Teller.

MY SISTER'S PONY.

'A fall from a pony, eh!' said young Dr. Lee as he entered the cosy sitting-room and drew off his gloves. 'Yes, and a pretty hard one, too, I should think from the looks of this wrist; it's badly sprained, when was it done?

'Last night, doctor,' said the patient, 'I was riding in the park about dusk yesterday evening, when Bess, (that's Ella's pony, you know,) tripped, and off I went. She didn't throw me though, she was never known to do such a thing, as that, she's gentle and quiet. I don't know what Ella would do without her.'

'Yes, she is certainly a very fine animal, but you must be more careful after this or you will get seriously hurt; this is not the first time, I believe. But it will get better if you are careful and bathe it well. Speaking of Ella's pony, reminds me of a pony my sister used to have when we lived in the country.

'Our farm was about a mile from the flourishing and fast-growing town of L——, in Ohio. We had moved there five years before from Vermont, where father had owned a planing-mill, but having decided that farming would be better for his health, he bought a farm in Ohio.

'Our family consisted of my father and mother, Bertha, and myself. Bertha was eighteen years old, being two years my senior. She had, when we lived in Vermont, gone to one of the best schools of the State, and when we moved to Ohio she finished her education at a boarding-school in Cincinnati. She graduated at the age of sixteen, and in order to buy a pony (something which she had longed to possess from her childhood) she taught school nearly a year to obtain the necessary money.

The pony she bought was a very handsome animal, jet black, and possessed of an excellent disposition. Several of her friends owned ponies, and she and they might often be seen riding out together. As soon as my sister purchased her pony, I very naturally wanted one too. I had not finished my education yet and could not teach school. So I worked on the farm in my spare hours, and father paid me for it, and in about a year from the time I commenced, I had one hundred dollars, enough to buy a pony, but not the kind I wanted.

'A gentleman in our town had one almost exactly like my sister's, and the same price, which was one hundred and fifty dollars. He wished to sell it, and I intended buying it, because I thought they would make such a splendid span. I had worked hard all the time, and while I was thinking and planning different ways of making money, I happened to think of the annual county fair to be held in L——, in about a month, and fifteen dollars was offered as a premium for the finest pony. If father was willing and Bertha would allow me, I could take hers.

"But father would not hear to it. He only said: "Just think what you would feel like if anything should happen to your sister's pony. You would not be likely to take the premium anyhow. No, I positively forbid it; you may go yourself but the pony must remain at home.'

'Now I was usually a very obedient boy, but this time it seemed impossible to obey: How could anything happen to the pony? I thought it foolish to think of such a thing, and decided to take it. Two weeks passed in which I made only a few dollars. At one time I would think: 'No I cannot disobey father, and I won't, it is wrong.' But immediately something would say to me, 'it's all right nothing will happen, and if the premium is taken, father will be glad, and if not, no harm will be done.'

'The week before the fair father received a telegram telling him that Aunt Jane was seriously ill, and asking father and mother to please come at once. They were to stay two weeks if not longer. Father said nothing more to me about the pony. I supposed that he had forgotten it, but not so; he thought it wise to say nothing more about it; he knew it was a strong temptation, and he wanted to see if I could and would resist it.

'On the morning of the fair I made known my intentions to my sister. She was much shocked at my determination, and coaxed and begged me not to take the pony. She did not care so much because it belonged to her, as that father had forbidden it. 'You always know what comes of disobeying father,' she said, 'and something will be sure to happen, and father will be so disappointed in you to find that you disobeyed him.'

'Her earnest entreaties were not heeded in the least. Many times since have I wished that they had been. She was vexed that I paid no attention to her words, and was afraid that something would happen to her pony, but was most distressed that I should disobey father. She would not refuse to let me take the pony indeed she would have wanted me to do so if father had been willing.

'As I cantered down the long lane she watched me until I reached the foot of the hill, when looking back, I saw her going slowly into the house. 'Poor Bertha,' I thought, 'she will be so lonesome. I won't stay long.' And I kept my word.

'I walked around the grounds and looked at all the things exhibited, and not a finer pony was there than Bertha's, I started for home at three o'clock. I had not spent a very pleasant day, for my conscience pricked me not a little. I tried to think it was right, but could not; I knew that I had done wrong. Bertha did not mention the pony again that evening, but seemed rather to avoid the subject. I was glad of it, as I did not want to talk about my act of disobedience.

'We went to bed early that evening, because we wanted to get up in time to go to the fair the next day. Bertha was going to accompany me, and wished to finish her morning work first. Towards morning I was awakened by some one calling me. I listened and found that it was John, the hired man. I dressed quickly and hurried down stairs. Bertha beckoned me to the south window, and pointed toward the fair grounds. I understood it at once, for it took but a glance at the lurid sky to tell me that something was on fire. Bertha's pony was in a building which had been erected on the fair grounds a short time before on purpose for the horses. I feared it was this building, but did not say so, because I did not wish to frighten Bertha, who only said: 'John is going to see what it is, and you had better go, too, and hurry back in time for breakfast.'

'I hurried and stumbled along as best I could [it was not quite light yet, being only half-past four o'clock] until I came in sight of the fair grounds. My worst fears were realized when one of our neighbors informed me that they had gotten five of the horses out, and were just bringing out Bertha's pony with several others when that portion of the building fell and they were killed. I waited to hear no more. I turned and ran home as fast as possible. One look at my face told Bertha the sad news. She did not reproach me, but I knew it was a great blow to her. She had worked and studied so hard to save enough to buy her pony, and now, by my act of disobedience she had lost it. I must of course give her all my money, but I did not care for that.

'The next day we learned that seventeen horses were all that were saved. Some could not be made to come out of the burning building. It was thought that the fire was of incendiary origin.

'I dreaded to meet my father terribly, and was several times tempted to write him and confess all, but dared not do it. Bertha was kind and cheerful all the time, never mentioning the matter. A week after the fair, father wrote that they would be home. O, how I dreaded it, but it was not as hard as I had thought it would be, for my kind sister had written of all the circumstances to them, thinking it would save me confusion.

'Father said very little to me, for as soon as he came home I handed my one hundred dollars over to my sister. She refused to take it at first, but father insisted that she should, thinking it would teach me a lesson, which it certainly did. Bertha bought another pony, but it was not as handsome as her first one had been. I never saved my money for a pony again, for I had had enough of ponies, but I never forgot the lesson I learned that day.'

A prominent physician of New York city writes as follows of the now almost universal malady: 'The Grippe or Influenza has rapidly spread through northern Europe and is now epidemic in many portions of our own country. Its symptoms are inflamation of the lining membrane of the nose which may extend to a portion of the structure of the lungs, with cough, sneezing, running at the e, and on there may be severe achlag pains and high fever. It is probably caused by a minute animal or vegetable germ which is inhaled from the atmosphere. The most effective way to treat it is to prevent it, that is to get the membrane of the nose and throat in such condition that it will resist the poisonous action of the germs, and also to destroy the germs which may have been inhaled before they have accomplished their work. A simple means of prevention will consist in evaporating a few tablespoonfuls of Pond's Extract, and inhaling the vapor morning and evening. The Pond's Extract may be poured into a tin cup, the cup held over the flame of a lamp (a nurse's lamp for heating milk for infants will do), and the nose applied to the top of the cup so that all the vapor may be inhaled.'

—The Pennsylvania commissioners of fisheries are now ready to distribute brook trout fry. Applications for fry should be made to Henry C. Ford, 1823 Vine street, Philadelphia; James V. Long, 75, Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh; H. D'Dermuth, Lancaster, S. B. Stilwell, Scranton; L. Strenber, Erie, and A. L. Powell, Harrisburg.

NORTHERN MEN IN THE SOUTH.

St. Louis Globe Democrat,

In one of his last speeches Mr. Grady eloquently implored the North to send her sons South for the purpose of helping to solve the political and social problems of that section; and in an address to a Philadelphia audience the other night Congressman Breckinridge, of Kentucky, made a similar appeal. "We are not all angels in the South," exclaimed the silver-tongued Kentuckian "we are men of like passions with yourselves. But we want you to send the best men you have to help us do for the colored people what is generous and right and just." These invitations sound well, and it would not be polite to question their sincerity. It is permissible, however, to doubt if the white people of the South, generally speaking, desire Northern men to come in and assist them in that way. There may be individuals here and there who would be glad to have succor of that sort, but there is really no reason to believe that any Southern community is ready to welcome Northern men as citizens and grant them free and equal participation in the adjustment of public affairs. The experience of Northern immigrants, many thousands of whom have gone South from time to time, has not been such as to justify others in going without some better assurance to just and friendly treatment than the florid rhetoric of an after-dinner speech.

It is true that Northern settlers in the South are not driven out with shot-guns, nor forced to swear allegiance to the Democratic party; but they are made to realize that they are distrusted and disliked, and that the voting of a Republican ticket is not recognized as one of their rights. The boasted hospitality of the Southern people, they soon find, is curiously limited by sectional and political prejudice. When the Northern man undertakes to live up to the views and teachings brought with him from his old home, he quickly discovers that liberty of speech and opinion has been left behind. His Southern neighbors may not openly do him injury in person or property, but they will systematically ostracize him and his family, and make his situation one which no self-respecting person can consent to endure. Such cases have happened in plenty.

The freezing-out process has sent a majority of the Northern immigrants back from the South, disappointed and indignant. They have not found that eager and hearty welcome which the orators so bountifully promised. Wherever they have fared differently their good fortune has been due to the presence of a predominating Northern element, and not at all to Southern kindness and fair dealing. It is proper that the truth should be told in this respect. The North would willingly send intelligent and worthy men South to help in the work of developing that part of the country, and in settling the questions by which it is hindered and perplexed, if they could expect a cordial and satisfactory reception. But so long as such a reception cannot be counted upon, it is hardly worth while for Southern speakers in Northern cities to make appeals for that class of immigrants.

Iron and Coal Trade.

A DAILY NEWS man was told by a responsible iron manufacturer and coal operator that the outlook for the future was now better than it had been for years. Iron is on a gradual raise and ready sale and the prospects almost insure a continual and steady increase for some time yet. Of course, that fluctuation of iron has not yet affected the ore men because of the over supply of that material, but so soon as the present stock is exhausted the demand will of course continue and the price cannot help but go up.

In the coal fields the demand is greater, notwithstanding the warm weather, than the supply at present can be, owing to the scarcity of cars. In some mines there are orders for two months' output in advance, while others have to refuse orders because of their inability to obtain sufficient shipping facilities. If this is not a healthy state of business and a bright outlook for the future, then we would like to know what is.

The Power of Fascination.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The power of fascination inherent in women may, moreover, be divided into two kinds. We all have seen the old lady, generally white-haired, with kindly, pleasant features, on which time has set a unfriendly mark, who still retains all her attractiveness. Note how the boys and girls adore her, they will go to her and confide their sorrows, their hopes, their ambitions, and when they would not breathe a word to their mothers. The kindly, loving interest evinced in a lad's affairs by such a one has time and again first implanted the impulses in the heart which eventually led him on to an honorable career.

Quickly, almost by strength, the good is done by such, and the good seed sown which will ripen in after time into a rich and abundant crop. On the other hand, we have most of us seen, perhaps in real life, certainly on the stage, the fascinating adventuress who, by her enthralling beaute de diable, enslave men's souls and leads them (on the stage) to dare all for her sake. Such is directly opposed to the sweet old lady in her old-fashioned chair, and these two form the opposite poles between which the women who fascinate vary.

Types differ, and any one you may select has some position between these two opposites. Take, for instance, a pretty and may be witty women who, hardly of her own free will makes every man fall in love with her to a greater or less degree. She may be innocent of any evil intention, but her position on the scale is not vastly removed from that of the melodramatic sorceress. Or, again, take the instance of a pretty young matron who, while devoted to home, husband and children, yet has several intimate friends of the male persuasion. But her influence is all for good. Her fascination is exerted in a worthy cause, and she has found out a great truth—that there is no friendship so lasting, so true, and so pleasant as one between persons of opposite sexes, where a true feeling of bonne camaraderie exists and there is no pretense to love-making. Such a woman, if she lives long enough, bids fair to develope into a snowy-haired old lady on whose friendship the children will rely.

SALLY CONQUERED.

How She Melted the Old Squire's Heart by a Witty Remark.

Many of the first settlers of Illinois were rude in speech and rough in manner. Money was scarce with them and service was paid for in produce. Governor B., according to the New York Ledger, used to illustrate these incidents of frontier life by the following anecdote: One day when he was a justice of the peace there came to his office a young man, accompanied by a young woman.

"Be you the squire?" asked the manly youth.

"Yes, sir."

"Can you tie the knot for us right away?"

"Yes, sir."

"How much do you charge?"

"One dollar is the legal fee, sir."

"Will you take your fee in beeswax?"

"Yes, if you can't pay cash."

"Well, go ahead and tie the knot and I'll fetch in the wax."

"No" said the squire, thinking there was a good chance for a little fun; "bring in the beeswax first, and then I'll marry you."

Reluctantly the youth went out to where was hitched the horse upon which, Darby and Joan fashion, the pair had ridden, and brought the wax in a sack. On being weighed its value was found to be only about half a dollar.

"Wal," said the anxious groom, "tie the knot, and I'll fetch more wax next week."

"No, sir; I don't trust; that's against the rules of this office."

Slowly the disappointed youth turned to go out saying:

"Come, Sal; let's go."

"I say, mister," answered Sal, with a woman's wit, "can't you marry us as far as the wax will go?"

"Yes, I can; and will," replied the "squire," laughing; and he did.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION.

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, a new book by Dr. John H. Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in Childberth, but results from causes easily understood and overcome. It clearly proves that any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to overcome and prevent morning sickness' swelled limbs, and all other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable and highly endorsed by physicians everywhere as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out: it will save you great pain, and possibly your life. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars, testimonials, and confidential letter sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

Chauncey Depew was to be Grady's Model.

At the last public dinner in New York which Henry W. Grady attended he sat opposite Chauncey M. Depew. Towards the end of the banquet Mr. Grady remarked to a gentleman by his side:

"I've been watching Mr. Depew, and I notice he drinks no wine. Is that his custom?"

"Yes, he drinks almost nothing. The greatest indulgence I ever knew him to allow himself was to barely sip occasionally from his champagne glass."

"Well, I've about made up my mind that that is the only course to adopt if you want to make an after-dinner speech that is worth hearing or worth remembering. I mean to make it my rule hereafter."

A LONG STRING OF $5 BILLS.

A Traveler Carries Uncut Bank Notes and Astonishes a Crowd.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

A tall black-whiskered man was leaning over the desk at the Continental Hotel last night conversing with several friends. Pulling a plethoric wallet from his pocket he took therefrom a long sheet of $5 bills, just as they came from the Treasury Department. His friends inquired what they were. "Only advertisments," was the reply. "They're given away now with tea instead of the usual chromos." By this time there was quite a crowd around the black-whiskered man eagerly examining the bills. Some thought they were genuine bills, while others, who had never seen bills in this shape before, as there were nearly a yard of them, really thought they were advertisements, and would not have bought the whole lot for 5 cents.

'You're all just like the fellow out in St. Louis. He was a clerk in a store, and when I had made a purchase I asked him for a pair of shears and proceeded to cut off a bill. You should have seen the man's eyes. They stood out so that you could have knocked them off with a stick. The outcome of the matter was that he refused to take them. Just at that minute the proprietor came from the office, and, seeing the status of the case, discharged the man, but, after I had explained the case we all had a good laugh."

'Why do I carry them in that way? I guess—well—I suppose to have a little fun; that's all. I have a friend, a cashier in a bank, and he lets me have them. Let's adjourn and have a B. and S. and see what the barkeeper has to say.

Washington's Queer Hotel.

A new hotel was opened this season in Washington which is run in the most peculiar way ever heard of, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune. It is kept by a woman. She is noted here as a worker in the Christian Temperance Union and other societies. The rules of her house prevent any one from having wine, beer or whiskey under that roof. It goes without saying that none of the "arden." is sold there. She will not even permit the use of tobacco on the premises. If a man should stray into the office with a cigar in his mouth he is instantly commanded to take it out, and told that the "vile habit" of smoking is not tolerated there. A few days ago the proprietor discovered that a married couple who had rooms in the hotel were in possession of a bottle of beer. She demanded that they should vacate the rooms at once, and they had to go. Several young men and women and widows who hold places in the Government service occupy rooms at the peculiar tavern. They cannot remain out at night after a certain hour unless the proprietor knows just where they are going, and in order to get back into the place they are furnished with permits. If they want to go to the theatre objection is raised for it is said the over pious woman who keeps the hotel is of the opinion that theatres are devices of the devil." As a consequence of such "blue laws" it is said that this hotel has within its walls more cranks, male and female, than were ever collected together before in one place in Washington.

The Way to be Miserable.

Never mind if the sun is shining, birds singing and flowers blooming; it will not always be so.

Suppose, dear madame, your husband did bid you a cheerful "by-bye" as he was leaving home in the morning; a frown may adorn his brow when he returns in the evening.

Your daughter Susie is a very sweet girl, but she may take it into her head to fall in love with an ice-peddler or a "baker's man" and thus defeat your ambitious aims for her.

Your bright boy, Johnnie, is all right now; but there is no knowing the mischief he may get into, and cause your name to be known in a police court.

You have in contemplation a journey. Now it is quite possible that it may be your last, and terminate in a country or locality for which you had not purchased a ticket.

Or, if the trip happens not to be the last, upon your return home you may find things generally in such a state of chaos that will heartily wish it had been.

Don't let a soul have the benefit of the fancies that fill your mind, and by excluding yourself from all society, enjoy the reputation of being "so very peculiar."

---

Ella—I know I am ugly but I love you, Erastus. I have $20,000 a year, will you marry me?

Erastus—Yes, darling, I'd marry you if you were twice as ugly—as you think you are my beautiful birdie.

—Work has been suspended on the A. G. Morris' branch of the Bald Eagle Valley railroad owing to an injunction issued by Mr. McCoy to restrain them from trespassing on private property without a legal rightaway. The case is now pending in the court for decision, and when that is rendered, if favorable, work will be at once resumed.

—One of the superstitions about the moon is that an unmarried person should take a mirror, go out of doors, and let the moonlight strike its surface. According to the number of moons you see in the glass, just that number of years will elapse before your marriage will take place. A bevy of young ladies in discussing the matter yesterday, cited several stories of people who had tried it, and in each case the looking glass told the truth.

—On Wednesday afternoon it stormed and snowed and rained and threatened, but after all was over it was a very small attack of winter at best. The ground this morning was covered with the heaviest fall of snow we have had this season and yet there was not enough to track a rabbit in. "Oh, for a good old-fashioned winter!" is now the exclamation of so many. If it would only get colder it would be far more healthier, and, perhaps, La Grippe might be then frozen out.

—The Philadelphia Daily News has devised a scheme to give away the handsomest sword ever made to the most prominent National Guardsman—the man to be decided by votes through the papers. There is a whole lot of advertising matter that paper is sending around to country papers ostensibly to help the decision along but in reality to help its circulation along. A lot of country editors are publishing their stuff but we are not "built that way."

—There is no excuse now for any man to be idle or go hungry. There is work in abundance and at living wages, if men want to and will work. If they will not then they are not to be pitied and should not pose as objects of charity. We believe in giving to the poor and assisting the needy—those who try to help themselves—and such are always entitled to great consideration, but when a man asserts that there is less work now and harder times than ever why it is to be supposed that that man don't want work.

—The Board of Poor Directors, of Somerset county, as at present constituted, is as follows: President, Mr. J M Fike; Alexander Hunter and Frederick Weller. The new officers for 1890 elected by the Board, are: Attorney and clerk L C Colborn, Esq.; steward, John C Miller; physician Dr. H S Kimmell; treasurer, George J Black; chaplain, Elder Valentine Blough, af the Dunkard church. They are all reappointments from last year, excepting the chaplain who takes the place of Elder Michael Weyand.

—Huntingdon Local News: A serious if not a fatal accident occurred on Wednesday afternoon at Hudson,s steam saw mill near Saltillo, this county. Frank Covert, a young man who has been employed at the mill for some time, while walking near the rapidly revolving circular saw, tripped and fell against it. In an instant his right arm and right leg were mangled, and his body badly lacerated. He was taken out alive and conveyed to his nome at Saltillo, but it is not thought that he can survive. Mr. Covert is 29 years of age and has a wife and four children.

—A report is in circulation that Mrs. John Johnson, of near Hublersburg, this county, the wife of the Johnson who was notoriously and almost fatally to himself, associated with the Culvey murder, died a couple of days ago, and that on her death bed she confessed that the Culvey horror was planned in their house, and that her husband was as guilty of the murder as Shaffer was. It is also stated that Johnson has disappeared from home. This, so far, is only a rumor, and therefore we cannot vouch for the responsibility of it, but the truth will probably be known in a day or two.

—Every Other Week is the name of a new publication that has just come to our table. Its name signifies the time of its issue—once in two weeks. It is same size as Harper's publications, printed on fine calendared paper and the letterpress is a very creditable recommendation for it; independent of its contents. It, however, is filled with very choice literature—novel, original and—interesting—is handsomely illustrated and altogether bears comparison with any of the higher priced magazines. ts terms are but $2.50 per year. Published by Every Other Week Co., St. Louis, Mo.

With the January issue, now out, the Philadelphia Musical Journal inaugurates its fifth volume. It has steadily improved during the past four years until it now stands at the head of American magazines devoted to the art of music. The literary portions of this issue include a series of articles on "Open Question" from some of America's leading instructors; a musical romance; musical news; educational articles, by Hugh A Clarke, Mus. Doc.; portrait and sketch of an American boy pianist; portrait of Arthur Nikisch, the new director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra; report of the first annual meeting of the Penn'a State Music Teachers Association and various other features of interest to musicians and musical people. As usual there are four musical selections "Fauns and Fairies Polka," "Little Favorite March," "Bud of Promise Schottische," and "Where the Sea Breaks on the Shore," the latter a charming vocal number. This music is alone worth the price of a year's subscription and is only a sample of that published in the Journal every month. To those who subscribe before the close of this month the publishers also give a 64 page Folio of Music Free. Subscriptions only $1.00 a year; sample copy, 10 cents. Eighth of January.

Wednesday was the 8th of January, the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, where Gen. Jackson knocked out the British under Gen. Packenham. This battle took place Jan. 8, 1815, and Generals Packenham, Gibbs and Kean were all three successively killed. Gen Jackson commanded about 6,000 men behind defences and the murderous fire poured into the advancing British lines was terrible. The British army numbered 12,000 of the best troops of that country, but they met with total defeat and fled, leaving 700 dead and more than 1,000 wounded on the field. Jackson's force lost only seven killed and six wounded. Formerly it was the custom to celebrate this date, but of late years the custom has fallen into disuse, except in the larger cities, where Jacksonian societies exist. The battle of New Orleans was fought after the signing of the treaty of peace at Ghent, but the news of which did not get around in time to prevent the battle.

Installation of Dr. George L. Potter Post Officers.

On Friday evening a large crowd assembled in Boggs' Hall, Milesburg, to witness the installation of the officers for the ensuing year of Dr. George L. Potter Post, No. 261, Department of Pennsylvania, G A R, Comrade Geo. Brandon, of the Brockerhoff House, this place, was the installing officer. The following were the officers installed:

Commander, A S Smith; S V., S R Watson; J V, John Martin; Chaplain, Thomas Wilson; Q M, W H Musser; O D, James Kreps; O G, James Bradley. The installation order of services were interesting and impressive.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies incident to the installation a huge camp fire was lighted which burned with unusual brilliancy for quite a while, and more than one old soldier warmed his memory at the fire.

TO ADVERTISERS!

HOW TO GET THE MOST SERVICE FOR THE MONEY!

The Advertiser who would be willing to pay twenty-five cents for every family who could be "educated" up to the value of his goods would thus devote $3,000,000 to educate the 12,000,000 families which make up the 60,000,000 of the United States. This sum would do the business thoroughly in a year, for it is sufficient to pay for the insertion of a full column in every issue of every publication, and for resetting the matter, making it new in every issue of each separate publication. We will receive and execute the contract.

$5,000 One of the most successful Advertisers we ever had always ordered his advertisements in this way, "Get the best service you can for me for $5,000," leaving every detail to us. We were thus enabled to say to a Publisher, if you put this in at a large reduction from your rate it will be no criterion for further transactions. It was a surprise to find ourselves so often able to contract for the insertion of that particular advertisement at half rates, in papers which would not permit us to OFFER their columns at a penny's deviation from a printed schedule. The advertising rates of one New York paper are double those of another which has twice the circulation of the first. Similar discrepancies are not uncommon. The advertisement intrusted to us to be placed in accordance with our judgment often does double service for half the money. A dollar for twenty-five cents.

$1,000 If we are given authority to insert advertisements to a limited amount, in such mediums as ofier inducements which seem to us specially favorable, we shall not abuse the confidence reposed in us, and shall render statements of whatever is done (if anything) from day to day. When TRUSTED with the placing of an advertisement, we are put upon honor, and are bound in honor to give the best service possible for the money to be used.

$500 Leading Newspapers, especially the leading Agricultural Nswspapers, frequently issue large special editions (of twenty, fifty, a hundred, or even five hundred thousand copies,) and eslicit advertisement orders from us on terms which would often be accepted by our patrons if there was time to invite attention to the matter; but the question must generally be decided before there would be time to write and receive a reply, and often the caso cannot be fully stated within the limits of a letter.

$250 Prepare a small advertisement and send with check for $250, or any other sum. The practice of asking the Agent to name his papers in advance compels him to name such as are well known, otherwise there is reason to suspect that his judgment is biased;—and the best papers do not like to have their rates quoted below their schedule.

$100 The advertiser who sends his advertisements asking for the best service possible for one hundred dollars, will often get from five to fifty per cent more service for his money, than he would had he required us to tell him in advance exactly what service we would promise; for when an estimate has been given its plan and specifications must, in a general way at least, control the advertising to be done: It ties the Agent's hands and prevents his giving his patrons TO-DAY a better service than he could have promised yesterday, because yesterday the opportunity had not presented itself: to-morrow it may have passed! Some publications are used more economically on contracts for a single issue; in others insertion for a month may be had as cheaply as for a single week but in furnishing an estimate in advance, if the Agent attempts to go into details, his correspondence becomes voluminous and the advertiser confused.

$50. If you are in the habit of occasionally inserting a small advertisement in a few papers, investing a few dollars and carefully noting the result; we desire you to make trial of our Advertising Bureau, sending us the advertisement and the money, leaving the selection of the papers to us, and judging of the service rendered by results rather than by names, circulation claims or prices. To make up careful estimates calls for much work. It don't pay to make them indiscriminately for every applicant. If such estimates as are asked for were always given the Advertiser who wished to expend $50 would frequently find himself in posession of a scheme which it would cost $500 or possibly $5,000 to carry out.

$10. We devote all necessary care to placing small orders for Advertising:—even the smallest! Time is saved by sending check with the order. Often the Advertiser is not possessed of sufficient information on the subject to enable him to judge of the merits of an estimate for advertising, and he decides by the footings of the figures whether he will or will not do the work. Yet the estimate binds the Agent and makes it improper for him to make any variation in its specifications, however much his judgment may point to material changes which ought to be made. This is specially liable to be the case when the order comes a considerable time after the estimate was made.

THE TOBACCO TAX.

The advocates of the repeal of the useless tobacco tax have been very much pleased at the character of the testimony presented in their behalf before the Ways and Means Committee. Some of the most prominent business men of Baltimore spoke in behalf of the tobacco growers of Maryland, and the same arrangements would apply to that State are equally applicable to every State engaged in the growing and manufacture of tobacco. The planter is quite as deeply concerned in the removal of the tax as the manufacturer and the consumer, and it is confidently believed that with the removal of the internal revenue tax there could be a marked revival of the tobacco industry throughout the country.

A Baltimore paper pleads the cause of the poorer classes, among whom tobacco in some form is largely used, by saying that they are forced by the tax to pay two prices for an inferior article because they buy small packages, and it does not pay the manufacturer to put the best tobacco in small packages with the tax added. They are virtually cut off from the enjoyment of the higher grades of tobacco because of this tax. It will not do to say that tobacco is a luxury. Nothing is a luxury which is in almost universal use. Tobacco is as necessary to those who have accustomed themselves to its use—and they number four workmen out of every five—as tea, coffee or any other accompaniment of the table outside of bread and meat. Millions would prefer to be deprived of coffee and tea rather than tobacco; and it is not the business of the Government to force them to a discrimination. The tax has had its day and served its purpose. It is, essentially, a war tax, un-American in character, unjust to the public, offensive to thousands of honest citizens, and should be removed.

EVERY woman in America ought to read the article "Women of Siam" in DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE for February, to know how happy her lot really is. The forcible contrast between our progressive civilization and that of the far East has seldom been so strikingly presented to our notice as in this reliable article, illustrated in part by drawings made by a native Siamese artist, which compare curiously enough with the fine examples of our modern illustrative art in the same number. The other beautiful illustrations (nearly two hundred) include an exquisite full page gravure on heavy plate-paper, entitled "How Long?" portraits of the venerable Don Pedro, deposed Emperor of Brazil, and his family, and as if these were not sufficient attractions for any publication, the past is made to yeild us its treasures, and the time "When Grandmamma Was Young" is portrayed for us in charming pictures and decriptions. From grandmamma to baby, who will be delighted with the funny "Japanese paper Frog," no member of the family has been slighted in compiling this number. Demorest's is justly celebrated as a "Family" Magazine, and this issue is fully up to its reputation. Its useful departments are replete with information, as usual: a supplement of beautiful fancy costumes enriches the Fashion Department, a thrilling temperance poem, by the author "Curfew Must Not Ring To-Night," will appeal to every mother's heart, and a full quota of delightful stories, etc., render this February number an unusually attractive one. But one of the most attractive features of this remarkable Family Magazine is its price,—only $2.00 per year. Published by W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 15 East 14th St., New York.

THE testimony in the contest for the seat in the House of Representatives now held by Clifton R. Breckinridge ought to be very persuasive for the enactment of National regulation of Congressional elections. Notwithstanding the fact that Judge Clayton's district went Republican by 3,600 at the State election shortly preceding the Congressional, and at another election shortly following it by 1,000, showing that the district is honestly Republican, and the fact that Clayton was unusually popular, the votes were counted so as to defeat him, and when he showed a disposition to contest he was murdered. Since then nothing has been done to the murderers and nothing will be, though considerable has been done to those who showed a disposition to hunt the murderers down. Judge Cooyghan who made a fearless charge to the grand jury about indicting the murderers and his Prosecuting Attorney who also boldly stood for justice, have since found it very convenient and comfortable to resign their offices and leave the State, though they were old citizens and Democrats. The editor of the Arkansas Gazette, an old Democratic organ, who vigorously denounced the murder, has found it convenient and comfortable also to sell out and quit the State for regions less murderously and Democratically inclined. The strength and desperateness of the Democratic election manipulators of the district are apparent. Such a thing as an honest election under the present regulations is impossible.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c and $1.00 per bottle at W C Keplinger & Co's Drug store.

—What a nuisance it is to have a lot of boys gathered around the entrance to the court house on the occassion of any public entertainment? to clamber on the steps, in the way of any and every person passing up or down. Keeping up a general hubbub and racket—enough to wake the dead—and with their pertinent questions and innumerable remarks worry the nervous and insult the aged. It shouldn't be, but boys will be boys, and such acting will undoubtedly continue to be unless put a stop to by the authorities.

What Was It?

A couple of young men from Milesburg while coming up the pike this side of McCoy & Linn's ironworks on Tuesday evening were astonished to have it become suddenly light as day. On looking up to discover the cause they were more surprised to see apparently a cloud of fire sailing along not far above them. The cloud was wonderfully bright and appeared up the hollow to the left of the pike. The query now is, what was it?

—A statement having been telegraphed from Huntingdon that there is more drunkenness in that town under prohibition than under license, and that public sentiment is in favor of license, Judge McCarthy, in the Local News, denies the truth of this allegation, says that there is less drunkenness in Huntingdon than ever before and more general prosperity. His words are endorsed by the ministers of the town and by the officers of the Women's Christian Temperance union.

—Mr. Benjamin Cogan, of Altoona, and Miss Mollie McKee, of Carson Valley, have accepted a proposition made by a furniture dealer of Altoona to give a handsome chamber suit to any young couple who would get married in his show window. The wedding will occur Thursday evening at 8 o'clock sharp. Both the young people are highly respected and have large circles of friends.

—A correspondent of an architects' journal says that "one of the most effective means of keeping a cellar dry is to build an area wall around the whole of the site, so that earth does not rest directly against the walls of the house." A much cheaper plan, and one that is quite as effective is to build the cellar in the garret. This dispenses with the extra wall.

I WISHED I WAS DEAD!

After suffering several years with the Leucorrhoea, and no doubt I would have been, only a lady induced me to try Sulphur Bitters. Now I am well. Three bottles cured me.—Mrs. Coppa, Newport, R. I.

—William Tanyer, of Pine Grove Mills, thus far takes the lead in the number of deer he killed this season, which was in number three, and those large ones. Mr. Tanyer says that if there is any other person in Centre county who can beat that he would like to have them step out and show their proof. If none comes forward he will wear the plume.

—In the case of the arrested puddlers which were given a hearing on Tuesday, four of them were bound over for trial at the next term of court and being unable to give bail, were remanded back to jail. One of them, a man named Keys, was discharged because of insufficent evidence against him to warrant his being held for trial.

—There are from twenty-five to thirty cases of the grippe in Milesburg.

Houserville Again.

La grippe has not slighted Houserville in the least, there has been a dozen or more cases during the past week and Dr. Dale, of Lemont, has his hands full of business just at present.

Thursday of last week Mr. Owen Mothersbaugh, of Boalsburg, transacted business in this place.

Mr. Martin Houser, formerly of this place but who for quite a number of years has been living in Clearfield county, died recently at his home in that place. His remains were brought to this place and buried on Saturday.

Quite an interesting debate took place on the streets of our town, one evening last week, between two of Houserville's best educated young men. The subject under debate was "which is the most newsy paper published in Centre county; the Bellefonte Republican or the Keystone Gazette?" It was decided in favor of the Republican.

Mr. A B Cowher contemplates moving to Morris' lime kilns some time in the near future.

Mr. Grant Holderman, of Oak Hall, was a recent visitor at the home of R B Wirts, in this place.

Our school teacher, Mr. William Shellenberger, attended the funeral of his wife's father in Juniata county last week.

We are glad to note that Mr. Grant Coble, who has been sick for some time is able to be around again. Grant is a jolly good fellow and during his late sickness was very much missed, especially among the young ladies of this place.

Sauer kraut! sauer kraut! Do you want any sauer kraut? Such was the call that was heard on last Saturday evening at the door of one of our near neighbors. It was a new way of calling on an old flame.

SHORTY.

—Mr. A B Steel and family, who have been residents of this place for many years, left Wednesday for Tyrone where they will take up their future abode. We hope Mr. Steel may find success in his new place of residence, and we know that he will be missed in Bellefonte.

Houserville Howlings.

The roads are very bad—the recent heavy rains and the great amount of travel putting them in a terrible condition.

Mrs. J. H. Lutz, of this place, is very low with typhoid fever. We hope for her speedy recovery.

We are glad to say that Mr. Grant Coble is again able to be about.

It is not correct that William Coble saw a ghost or a walking skeleton. It was E. H. that he saw.

Your correspondent had the pleasure of meeting and greeting Dr. Joseph Shuey, of Ohio, who is at present visiting the home of his father, Mr. E. M. Shuey, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, of this place, were away visiting friends for a few days.

Mr. Houser, of Sandusky, Ohio, has been visiting at the home of grandma Houser for the past week.

Mr. Martin Houser was buried in the cemetery at this place last Saturday. Mr. Houser was a resident of Clearfield county, Pa.

Henry Thompson and family are visiting at the home of 'Squire Thompson, of this place. Mr. T. is a very pleasant fellow to meet.

Mr. John Bathgate is the possessor of a very pretty watch presented to him by his father.

Verdie, you ought to pen up those hounds on Saturday evening as they make a great deal of noise.

UGLY JOE.

Milesburg Murmurings.

It is reported that some of Bellefonte's fair ladies have taken to choo-ing—this is, indeed, an age of surprises.

Your regular correspondent from this place is in the clutches of la grippe.

Mr. C H Else is attending to business with a pulse that would put a man of less nerve to bed, but as the "need of the hour" seems to be antipyrine and as Mr. Else's able assistant, Mr. Harry Bouse, has yielded to the inevitable, Mr. Else is trying for the sake of suffering humanity to stick to his post.

Strange, is it not, that a government which has proven its ability to furnish grip for the world should have such a weak hold on the hearts of its people.

Miss Rose Levy, who has been attending Bellefonte high school, is very sick.

Mrs. Josephine Green's friends are pleased to hear that her physician considers her condition improved and her chances for recovery favorable.

A new member of the firm of W B Miles & son is the junior partner whose name is not yet announced. This young gentleman does not propose to be a "silent partner" and the world will hear from him later on.

Miss Mary Hibler, who returned from a six months' visit to N. Y. a week ago, has been confined to bed ever since with a very severe attack of La Grippe.

Two More Swindlers.

People may ask what the world is coming to and all that sort, but the latest swindle is just too great, and if McGinty was living at the present date he would hide his face in shame, ro else he was behind the door when shame passed. But to our swindle, it is as follows: Two hoof-tourists, one with little longer hair than the other, strike a town and work it for all it is worth. The one with the long hair will call at a house and ask the loan of a pair of scissors, saying that his companion wishes to cut his hair. That is the last you see of the scissors or the gentleman bums. He works that scheme until he gets about a dozen pair of scissors and then he goes to meet his confederate at some appointed place. They have sandpaper, emery-paper, and all the necessary implements to polish the steal scissors and after doing so they can retail them at a very reasonable price and still realize a handsome living profit. Look out for the long haired chap who desires to have his hair cut by a friend of his, he may call at your house at any hour.

Also, look out for a stranger who is going the round swindling people by selling a powder "warranted to cure all ills." He charges from $3 to $5 and leaves a little bit of cornstarch.

Officers Installed.

The following officers of Centre Castle No. 169, installed by Dept. Grand Master J. J. Grenoble, in a meeting of the Knights of the Golden Eagle of Spring Mills, Pa., held on Saturday evening, the 11th:

Representative to Grand Castle—Dr George Lee.

An Old Custom.

In looking over old records and the files of old newspapers, we have discovered the remarkable fact that there used to be snow in this country, and that the people greatly enjoyed themselves in what they called the winter season in sleighs, which instead of running on wheel, slid smoothly over the frozen snow. The horses attached to said vehicles carried strings of bells around their necks and front and over their backs and buffalo robes were used to keep the sleigh-riders warm. Sleigh-riding was esteemed great fun, and the young folks had jolly times. They didn't care how cold it was—they just snuggled up to each other and kept warm. All this occurred years ago, before the climate changed which brought rain and mud and the grip instead of sleighing.—Lock Haven Democrat.

A Wonderful Recovery.

Mrs. George P Smoote, a highly cultivated and estimable lady of Prescott, Ark., writes under date of April 22 1889: "During the summer of 1887 my eyes became inflamed and my stomach and liver almost hopelessly disordered. Nothing I ate agreed with me. I took chronic diarrhœa, and for some time my life was despaired of by my family. The leading physicians of the country were consulted, and the medicines administered by them never did any permanent good, and I lingered between life and death, the latter being preferable to the agonies I was enduring. In May 1888, I became disgusted with physicians and their medicines, I dropped them all, and depended solely on Swift's Specific (S S S) a few bottles of which made me permanently well—well from then until now.

Disabled for Business.

Several years ago my health failed me and I was compelled to give up my business. I was in constant agony caused by excruciating pains in my back, liver and stomach. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but without receiving any relief. My attention was then called to S S S. I tried five bottles of it, and received the most gratifying results. I am to-day as healthy and sound a man, as you will find anywhere, and I owe it all to the curative properties to be found in Swift's Specific (S S S).

Howard Happenings.

Col. Dunham was visible on our streets last week and, we must say, his appearance is always welceme.

Rev. George E King has been confined to his room for several days, with the grippe. Quite a number of our citizens are afflicted with the same disease.

Miss Sarah Meese, formally of this place but at present living in West Virginia, is visiting her invalid mother in this place,

Miss Belle Holter is again convalescent.

Mr. Crite and family, of Renovo, is visiting the Rev. George E King.

Work here is abreast with any other place in the county, as few idlers are seen in and around Howard. The bridge, builders have at last made their appearance and now the prospects are favorable for a new bridge soon.

The new firm of J. and C. Pletcher, are now ready to do all kinds of planing and can fill orders for bent rims on short notice.

Grapes for Changeable Weather.

The effect of changeable weather on ladies of delicate constitutions is very depressing and serious and something strengthening is needed to assist nature in withstanding the strain. Nothing more effective can be found than Spear's Port Burgandy and Claret Wines, which are in general use in the New York and other hospitals. For sale by druggists.

Broke His Neck.

George Croyle, aged 74 years, fell from top of a load of hay yesterday afternoon near the Vulcan colliery, which is between Ramey and Madeira. His neck was broken by the fall. Mr. Croyle made his home with his son Samuel at Ramey and was a quiet and respected citizen.—Philipsburg Journal.

Rheumatism is caused by lactic acid in the blood, which Hood's Sarsaparilla neutralizes, and thus cures rheumatism.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

GUILTY OF VIOLATING A TRADE-MARK.

Luzon J. Finch, who was indicted several months ago for violation of the trade-mark laws in imitating the wrappers and other distinctive marks of the genuine Carter's Little Liver Pils, pleaded guilty yesterday before Recorder Smyth in the Court of General Sessions. The Recorder said that on the written recommendation of the District Attorney and on the certificates by the complainants that the defendant had ceased to violate the trade-mark and had surrendered the the materials used in imitating the complainant's trade-mark, he would suspend sentence. He continued:

The complainant in this case unites with the Distric-Attorney in requesting that judgment should be suspended upon you. It is a mere suspension of judgment. If you are again found violating this trade-mark you will be brought here and sentenced to the longest term the court can impose upon this conviction. You understand you stand here now convicted of a misdemeanor. There will be no trial. You can be sentenced upon this conviction at any time the court chooses to pass sentence upon you. If you engage in this business of violating the complainant's trade-mark just as sure as you stand there and I happen to be here you will be sentenced to the Penitentiary. You can go for the present.

The Pulpit and the Stage.

Rev. F M Shrout, Pastor United Brethren Church, Blue Mound, Kan., says: 'I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My Lungs were badly diseased, and my parishioners thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well gaining 26 lbs. in weight."

Arthur Love, Manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes: 'After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, beats them all, and cures when everything else fails. The greatest kindness I can do my many friends is to urge them to try it.' Free trial bottle at W C Keplinger & Co's Drug Store. Regular sizes 50c. and $1.00

"La Grippe" in New York.

The worst treatment for a heavy cold is "letting it alone," and the next worse is dosing with drugs and crude mixtures. The great want then is, a particular specific to allay fever; arrest congestion and inflammation and prevent extension of the disease to the lungs. Now, since reports from various parts of the country are to the effect that the above disease is on the increase, and to prevent its assuming a malignant type if attacked, we would recommend two of the most highly endorsed remedies in the country. Humphreys' Specifics NOS. ONE and SEVEN. Hundreds of people taken with cough and influenza and symptoms of what is now termed "La Grippe," have been speedily and permanently cured by them. No one allays the fever, pain and inflamation, while No. SEVEN gets in its good work upon the cough, hoarseness and sore throat. Hundreds of publishers, having found these Specifics of priceless value in their family, never hesitate to recommend them to their many readers.—Ex.

EXPERIENCE TAUGHT ME:

And my money paid for it. After having Liver Complaint four years, and spending money on nostrums and doctors who didn't help me, I tried Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. I shall always use them.—G.N. Butler, Cohoes, N.Y.

—There can be no doubt about General Viscount Wolseley's belief in the policy of Imperial Federation, after the remark he is said to have made in his article on "The Standing Army of Great Britain," for the February number of Harper's Magazine. The remark refers to the forces maintained by the British colonies: "Their importance will be fully recognized by the world whenever God in His mercy is pleased to send us a statesman wise enough and great enough to federate and consolidate into one united British Empire all the many lands and provinces which acknowledge Queen Victoria as their sovereign."

AN EASTERN TALE.

A king once summoned his three sons,
And thus addressed the anxious ones:
"Go forth, my sons, through all the earth
And search for articles of worth;
Then he who brings the choicest thing,
Shall in my stead be crowned as king."

|---|---|
| In one year's time again they meet, | 'Twas hard to choose between the two, |
| And kneel before the sovereign's feet: | The monarch knew not what to do. |
| And as with gracious outstretched hand, | The third is standing calmly there; |
| He welcomed home the youthful band, | Now, with a half triumphant air |
| He natural eagerness expressed, | And smile of confidence and hope, |
| To see the objects of their quest. | He shows a cake of Ivory Soap, |
| The first such lustrous pearls displays, | So peerless in its purity, |
| That every tongue is loud in praise. | That dirt, alarmed, takes wings to fly. |
| So white, the snow-flakes on their way | The old king, as it meets his sight, |
| Compared to them are dull and gray. | Grasps it, and cries in wild delight: |
| The next a diamond more pure, | "No more confusion or dismay, |
| And larger than the Koh-i-noor, | No more cold meals on washing day. |
| That shone with such a brilliant light, | Subjects! my youngest son obey, |
| The sunbeams, shamed, withdrew from sight. | The Ivory Soap has won the day." |

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

The Coroner's Inquest.

Coroner Mader held an inquest on the body of James Waltz, the man who was killed at the Beech Creek railroad bridge near Beech Breek borough. The Coroner empanelled as a jury H. H. Mothersbaugh, O. N. Saulsbury, J. S. Trexler, A. M. DeHaas, James McGhee and E. C. Brown, who returned a verdict to the effect that Waltz came to his death by being struck on the head with a brace or piece of timber used in the construction of the railroad bridge of which Waltz was watchman. The timber struck the unfortunate man on the front part of the head crushing his skull in such a manner that he died instantly.

—A Nittany valley farmer, while driving to Lock Haven on Monday, saw a flock of crows gathered about some object in a field, and, as they were making so much noise and fuss, he concluded to investigate. On reaching the spot the farmer found a blacksnake three and one half feet long crawling on the ground. When it is remembered that Monday was the 13th day of January, the fact of a farmer seeing a blacksnake in a meadow on that date is proof enough that the season is very unseasonable.

Held for Court.

The Lock Haven Democrat says W. W. Pettingill, charged with tampering with the Commonwealth witnesses in the Lovett murder case, had a hearing before Alderman Noble on Friday afternoon and on the evidence elicited was held for court. Not being able to furnish bail Pettingill was remanded back to jail.

The offence with which the so-styled detective, (?) doctor and politician is charged is a very serious one and if the evidence against him be conclusive he will likely be transferred to a new field wherein he can ply his various trades to his heart's content.

Literary Notice.

The scholars of our public schools will be interested in an offer made by the Youth's Companion in its issue of January 9. Its purpose is to stimulate them in a commendable competition and at the same time increase their love for their country. The publishers of the Companion offer to present a fine large bunting flag, 9 by 15 feet, with forty-two stars, to that public school in each one of the forty-two States and Territories, which shall send to them the best essay on "The Patriotic Influence of the American Flag When Raised over Our Public Schools." These essays will be received by the publishers of The Companion until April 1, 1890. The award of the flag will be made as near June 1 as possible, in order that the successful school may float the "Stars and Stripes" over its building upon the Fourth of July, next.

This movement to interest the young people of the present generation in securing a flag for the school house, is one that should be heartily commended and encouraged. Why cannot one of our own schools secure The Companion Flag for this State?

THE Reading railroad company was within its right when it issued a peremptory order compelling its brakemen and baggagement to shave off their beards, but its action was a bit of petty tyranny which does not go down well in a republican country. Besides, the magnate who issued this foolish order sets himself up to be wiser than the Creator who provided men with beards, certainly for a wise purpose. And it is known that there are hundreds of weak-throated men who are compelled, sometimes much against heir inclinations, to wear beards. All such who are in the service of the Reading railroad company must look elsewhere for employment or run the risk of sickness and death.

Who is E. S. Walker?

A dispatch received in this place on Saturday evening gave information that E. S. Walker was killed on the railroad on Friday evening at Olean, N Y., and inquired if there were any friends or acquaintances of his in this place. It was evident that the man was from Centre county but just what part of it was not known and hence inquiry was made at this place. Any information regarding his family or friends can be sent to this office or to the post office in Bellefonte.

The National Advertising Bureau.

The National Advertising Bureau of this city has recently completed the fitting up of a suite of rooms at the corner of Baltimore and North streets, which provide Baltimore business men and others with a convenience, the need of which is often felt. Persons often wish to consult a newspaper or other publication which is not on sale in this city, and which they have not time to order from a distance. The Bureau, which is the only advertising agency in the South doing a national business, receives almost every paper and magazine in the country. These are filed in the office, and can be consulted by the general public. The new quarters are very handsomely fitted up. The main entrance is on Baltimore St., with another on North St. The outside walls and windows are artistically decorated with advertising signs. The front room, facing on Baltimore St., which is the general business office, is a very cosy place, and is fitted with attractive furniture. In the rear is a large room, where all the daily and weekly newspapers, magazines and periodicals are kept on the file for the gratuitous use of merchants, advertisers and the public generally, and beyond this are two storage and file rooms. All the rooms are lighted by electricity. The experience of many years, and the gathering of a widely extended advertising patronage, has led to the adoption of a peculiar system of filing the immense piles of papers and magazines, so that large mails are quickly and easily handled. The new home of the Bureau will be completed in a few days. The Bureau is one of the best known concerns of its kind in the country, and enjoys the entire confidence of the business community at home and abroad.—The Baltimore Daily News, Dec. 26, 1889.

A man who has practiced medicine for 40 years ought to know salt from sugar; read what he says:

Messrs. F. J. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions.

Time flies and stays for no man. The only fellow who can beat him is a musician.

Why is a bullock a very obedient animal?—Because he will lie down if you axe him.

"I believe your wife's mother is with you now?" "Yes, she's with me, but she's agin me."

Why is a weathercock like a loafer?—Because it is constantly going around doing nothing.

Cholly—Do you notice, Dolly, that I am raising a moustache? Dolly—Well, it needs raising, for I perceive it is down at present.

Chesterfield—I dislike women barbers. Jingles—Why, I thought you were an admirer of the sex! So I am; that's why I hate to be cut by the ladies.

Mrs. Jones (with a pin in her mouth) Your idea may be clear enough, but I confess I don't see the point. Jones—Naturally; but you're chewing it.—New Haven News.

Women have cheek enough to wear men's hats on their heads; but there is one thing they dare not do. Not one of them dare to remove her hat and dust off the bald spot.

Mr. Honeymoon—Did you sew that button on my coat, darling? Mrs. Honeymoon—No, sweetheart. I couldn't find the button—I sewed up the button-hole and it's all right.

"What do you mean, sir, by swearing before my wife? You must apologize!" "Pardon, monsieur? Pardon! I do make ze apology, I did not know ze lady wished to swear ze first."

An old lady, not remarkable for the clearness of her ideas, describing a fine summer evening said: "It was a beautiful bright night; the moon made everything as light as a feather."

There is something solemn in the tones of a great bell striking midnight, especially if you are a mile from home and know that your wife is sitting behind the hall door waiting for you.

"The Herr Baron is not at home, but you can leave your bill if you choose." "Bill? I haven't any bill. I only meant—" "No bill? Then you must have made a mistake in the house."

Tom, angrily—Did you hear Dick call me an idiot? Harry—No; on the contrary, he paid you a compliment. Ah? what did he say? He remarked that you were not the only idiot in they world.

Yabsley—Did I understand you to say that Mudge went insane when Miss Philip refused him? Wickwire—I don't know what you understood me to say. What I did say was, that he went away mad.

In Other Counties.

It is said there are 200 cases of la grippe in Lewistown.

The Everett furnace was started up on Saturday, after being idle for three years.

Yesterday at Coopersdale the body of a 12 year old boy was found in the debris in the Conemaugh river. He was a flood victim.

An unsuccessful attempt was made by burglars to break into the store of William Macklin's Sons, of McVeytown, on Saturday night.

On Monday night S L Striker's store, at Petersburg, Huntingdon county, was entered by burglars, the safe blown open and $3 stolen.

The dwelling house on the farm of Edward Shiffler, near Oriental, Juniata township, was burned on December 29. The household goods were saved.

In Juniata county the recent deaths are: Samuel Rannels, of Fermanagh township, aged 24; Mrs. Agnes Shadle, of Susquehanna township, aged 22 years.

John Heinlein, a Johnstown butcher, yesterday accidentally stepped into a trough filled with scalding hot water, and slipped. He was terribly scalded about the abdomen.

E. E. Sheesley, of Milford Station, Juniata county, a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad, on Christmas fell from his train at Briley's station and had both legs badly injured.

Sanitary Bureau, New York City.

Dr. Cyrus Edson of the New York Health Department prescribes Speer's Port Grape Wine in his practice as the purest and most reliable wine to be had and his opinion is endorsed by his associates as will be seen from the following letter:

New York, Dec. 9, 1887.
The Speer N J Wine Co..
Gentlemen:
Having used your Port Wine to a large extent in my family in cases of sickness and found it to be all that was recommended of it by my family physician, I desire to purchase it by the dozen bottles,
Respectfully yours,
JAMES BRYAN,
Sanitary Inspector Health Department, New York City. Druggists keep it.

Change Moving Day.

It will soon be moving time again and the renting of houses is now being proceeded with. In Williamsport an energetic movement has been made to change moving day from April 1st to May 1st, and the same thing ought to be done here. Landlords could rent their houses for thirteen months from April 1st this year and then next year the usual twelve months' rental could be made. The only objection to this would be the determination of some people to make garden and plant salad and onions before the 1st of May. But this objection is only a trifling one.

—Shamokin editors recommend the following to knock smithereens out of La Grippe: Take a twelve ounce tumbler, put in two ounces of sugar, one ounce of butter, one ounce of the best brandy, fill the tumber with boiling water and cover top well with grated nutmeg. Take two or three times a day, stay in the house and take one dose before going to bed.

—At the District Convention of Good Templars now in session in Lock Haven there is not one delegate from Centre county although it is embraced in the district. Why is this? A county that gave almost two thousand for Prohibition and yet allow such a lack of interest in such a good temperance society as that. Verily there is something wrong somewhere.

—Thus far the series of Star Course Entertainments of the W. C. T. U. have been a complete success. The next entertainment to be given by them will occur on January 29th when Russell H Conwell will deliver one of his grand lectures. Mr. Conwell is no stranger in Bellefonte, and because of that fact he will undoubtedly draw a full house.

—There was a quiet wedding in the Irvin House, Lock Haven, on Thursday evening. It was the occasion of the marriage of Mr. P. W. Swope, of Julian, this county, and Miss D. E. Murley, of same place, Rev. S. Taylor performed the ceremony. The bride is a graduate of the Lock Haven Normal school.

—Mr. Christian Buck, a prominent resident of Unionville, who is well and favorably known throughout the county, will move to one of the eastern counties, in the spring, to take charge of an extensive tannery for a Philadelphia firm. Mr. B. is an old tanner by profession, having carried on business in this county many years ago.

—Now is the time for merchants to advertise. Don't let the people of Centre county think you have gone to sleep and, probably, will remain so for eleven months to come, but tell them through the paper what you have to sell.

In Other Counties.

George Lightner, of Tyrone township, Perry county, died on Wednesday, aged 28.

Alexander Cozzens, of Huntingdon, died on Thursday morning, aged 44 years. He leaves four children.

During the high winds of Wednesday night one span of the partly finished Mexico bridge (Juniata county) was blown down.

The bodies of three flood victims were found in the river at Coopersdale since our last report—two men and one woman One of them was identified as the remains of Germanus Voeghtley, of Conemaugh borough.

Yesterday a Cambria iron company laborer at Johnstown, named Joseph Konosky, was struck on the head by a heavy plate of sheet iron and probably fatally injured, his skull having been crushed in on the right side and his shoulder and breast badly injured.

A few days ago, Mary, an 11-year-old daughter of Miles Grove, of Brady township, Huntingdon county, was running down a hill near the house, and suddenly fell, striking a stone with serious result. Her collar bone and one arm were broken and a shoulder dislocated.

Lewistown Democrat and Sentinel: A double frame dwelling house at Granville, back of the sand warehouse, belonging to Anna Brought, and occupied by Henry M Steel and Howard Pelter, was destroyed by fire between 6 and 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. Some of the household goods on the lower floor were saved, but nothing on the upper floors. All the clothing of the families except what they had on was burned.

Cherrytree Record: The barn on the farm of Mr, Jacob Arthur, who resides about one mile west of Cherrytree, was totally destroyed by fire about midnight on January 1. Mr. Arthur discovered the fire before it had gained much headway and succeeded in getting out all his stock, but the wind was blowing a gale and it was impossible to save the barn. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin. The loss will reach about $2,500.

He'd Scoop a Little.

Wall Street News.

About the time that Daniel Drew began his Wall street career he was up in the country one time to visit some friends, and two farmers called upon him to decide a case. One had sold the other five bushels of wheat, and proposed to measure it in a half bushel, and sweep the top of a measure with a stick. The other objected, and Uncle Daniel was asked to decide.

'Well, legally speaking, a bushel is only a bushel,' he answered.

'And can the measure be swept off?'

'I think it can.'

'What with?'

'Well, if I was selling wheat I should probably use half the head of a flour barrel.'

'Which edge of it?'

'Gentlemen, that is a point I cannot now decide on,' sighed the old man, 'If I was selling to a widow or a preacher I am certain I should sweep the measure with a straight edge, but if was selling to a man who pastures his cows in the road and his pigs in his neighbor's corn, I'm afraid I should use the circular side and scoop a little to boot.'

—A prominent physician said on Friday night that there were more cases of the grippe in Bellefonte than any person was aware of. There are many serious cases too. We hear of one case in town which is likely to prove fatal as it has now turned into pneumonia.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The Grave Gets Tired Yawning.

Seemingly, for certain wretched invalids who toddle along, though always looking as if they were going to die, but omitting to do it. They dry up, wither, dwindle away finally, but in the meantime never having robust health, know nothing of the physical enjoyment the zest of that existance to which they cling with such remarkable tenacity. They are always to be found trying to mend by tinkering at themselves with some trashy remedy, tonic or "pick me up" to give a fillip to digestion or "help the liver." If such misguided folks would resort and adhere to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters it would be well with them. This superb invigorant supplies the stamina that the feeble require, by permanently reinforcing digestion and assimilation. It overcomes nervousness, insomnia, malaria, kidney complaint, billiousness, constipation, rheumatism and neuralgia.

FASHION NOTES.

Long scarfs of black lace are being worn as veils.

Ostrich plumes are in fasion with a vengeance, they are seen everywhere.

The cheif chapeau of the winter is the great hat with broad brim, completely covered with black or colored velvet.

Redingotes continue popular, they are made in plain cloth or faille, or in plush or velvet.

Hats are being made of cloth with broad flat brim scalloped at the edge and embroidered with silk, the flat crown covered with plumes of shaded feathers.

Evening toilettes if they have a train should have a long one. Long trains are again in fashion, brought into vogue by the abnormally long trains of bridal gowns worn during the season.

Girls' dresses have never been prettier than now, when the high Empire waist has just descended low enough to be in the proper place.

A pretty jacket is of black cloth with revers turned back with braid to show a tight fitting black vest, the collar is of black Astrakhan, and a narrow band of the Astrakhan adorns the front of the waistcoat.

An elegant mantle is of black velvet, trimmed with black fox fur and passementerie. The shape is kind of visite with long ends in front and short basques at the back, finished with a plaited velvet skirt. The sleeve is very elegant, trimmed with fur and passementerie and tipped with tassels.—Godey's Lady's Book.

We take pleasure in noticing the January number of Chat, which has just come to our table. Among the many smaller magazines we do not see any so bright, interesting and enterprising as this little visitor. There are two new features in this issue—"Fashion Talks," illustrated, and the first of a series of Paris Letters. They are both good additions and excellently made up. The College papers are continued by Miss Regina K. Crandall, of Smith College, Mass., who writes splendidly on "Fables, Facts and Fancies." That excellent Boys' and Girls' Story, 'Erling the Bold,' a tale of the Norse Sea Kings, is also continued. Besides, there are the usual short completed stories and papers devoted to Zig-Zig Sketches, Flowers, the Invalid's Corner, Young Folks' Miscellany, selected Poetry, etc.—all put together in most attractive form, placing Chat in the forefront of the low cost magazines. 48 pages. Yearly subscrtption; $1.00. Specimen may be had by sending 5ct. stamp to Chat Publishing Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

In a Bad Position.

William W Pettengill, of Bellefonte, who claims that he is a detective, was arrested yesterday at Lock Haven, at the instance of District Attorney Brumgard, who charged him with suboodination of witnesses of the Commonwealth in the case of Charles Brown who has been indicted for the murder of William Lovett. T T Abrams, Esq., who is assisting the Commonwealth in the case called Judge Mayer's attention to this matter in open court. Judge Mayer said that if such was the case, and the party brought before him and found guilty he would send him across the mountains for ten years. Pettengill waived an examination before Alderman Noble and was committed in default of bail. It is alleged that Pettengill offered one of the State's witnesses a position worth $75 a month, to another the sum of $15, and to others liquor, if they would testify in Brown's favor in the coming trial. C S McCormick, Esq., who has been retained by Pettengill arranged for a hearing today.—Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin of Friday.

Why Is It?

There is entirely too much shoddying in this world. Too much eagerness to get something for nothing. Too great a desire to beat the man who deals with you. The adulteration of foods, the application of the "Cheap John" principle in selling wares, merchandise and mechanical appliances, and the desire to make too big a prophet on investments in business generally, leads directly to shoddying—into cheating on the sly as it were—and honest people have to pay the penalty. Every man should do as he agrees; tell the truth when he sells anything as he would like to have the truth told him when he is the purchaser. In short, get down to honorable and legitimate business methods, and stay there. The man who expects to stay permanently in a community cannot afford to practice shoddying. Such methods can only profit the itinerant scalper.

This is a good time of year for everybody to quit shoddying. Let the practice die with the old year, and let an era of honorable methods in business be entered upon. Shoddying is a baldheaded fraud, and why it is practiced so greatly it is a puzzle to see.

Death of a Prominent Centre County Man.

Edward Augustus Ryman, a merchant of Philipsburg, died on last Saturday evening at 9.40 o'clock at his residence, of mitral disease of the heart. His health has been failing for nearly a year, but he refused to have a physician, although his wife advised it strongly. On Monday of last week he was taken quite ill at supper time and was delirious. Dr. Dunwiddie was called and prescribed for him and he felt better the next day. The relief was only temporary and he relapsed into delirium. Congestion of the lungs set in and he grew worse daily until death came on Saturday night.

Mr. Ryman was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ryman and was born at Milesburg 43 years ago. About 24 years ago he came to Philipsburg and has ever since been an upright, straight going, honored citizen of our town. Twenty years ago he was married to Miss Mary Ayers, daughter of Daniel Ayers, deceased. The fruit of the union was a daughter, Fannie, an accomplished young lady who is a teacher in the public schools, and Eddie, a little son 12 years of age.

Mr. Ryman's married life has been one of unusual happiness. He was a devotedly kind husband and parent and his great love for his family was lavishly returned. His store and residence were in the same building and he was thus enabled to enjoy the society of his family constantly, being seldom away from them even temporarily. Such a constant association produces an affection that a separation falls upon them with crushing force. The anguish of his family over his sudden death is painful. Mr. Ryman was an excellent man and citizen. He took a deep interest in local affairs and has held offices of trust in borough affairs with fidelity and credit. At the time of his death he was a member of the school board and he performed his duty faithfully and fearlessly. He was a very active member of Moshannon Lodge, 391, A Y M for many years and had just been elected and installed to the high office of worshipful master of the lodge and was buried yesterday afternoon with Masonic honors. He leaves beside his wife and children an aged mother Mrs. Ellen Ryman, of Milesburg; a brother, Mr. Miles G Ryman, of Philipsburg, and two sisters, Mrs. Howard Moore, of Howard, Pa., and, Mrs. Elizabeth Parsons, of Altoona.—Philipsburg Ledger.

Joe Furey on General Hastings.

The editor of the Democrat has known General Hastings pleasantly for many years and always found him an agreeable and honorable gentleman, who merits the highest respect and esteem. While differing with him politically we can sympathize with his efforts to secure the nomination of his party for the Governorship and earnestly wish him success. The Republicans of Clinton county, of which the General is a native, being a Salona boy, should certainly give him the delegates from here. This much in our opinion is certainly his due. The General is making excellent progress in his march toward the nomination, and it does really look now as though he was going to be successful We hope he will be able to knock the old politicians of his party all out, and crown himself with the circlet of the candidacy. If we must have a Republican Governor, a condition however, which we hope the Democrats this year will be able to prevent—then give us General Hastings in preference to any other Republican yet named.—Lock Haven Democrat

Argument Court.

The following cases were disposed of as recorded at the argument court held this week:

In the case of the Overseers of poor of Walker township vs. Overseers of poor of Howard Borough—order of removal reversed at the cost of Walker township.

In the case of Walkey and Dearing vs. J. A. Dillon—argued and continued.

In the matter of the assignee estate of Holt and Chipman—argument continued until final account is filed.

In the case of Elizabeth D. Kunes vs. H. H. Montgomery—argued.

In the case of Robert Cooke, Jr., use of H. M. Confer vs. Thomas Mann et al., defendant, and Harry Mann—judgment opened as to Harry Mann, garnishee, and thirty days allowed to file amended answer.

In the case of Robert Cooke, Jr., use of H. M. Confer vs. Thomas Mann et al., defendant and Wm Quay, garnishee—judgment opened as to Wm Quay, garnishee, and thirty days allowed garnishee to file an amended answer.

In the case of executors of Ambrose McWilliams, deceased, vs. Isaac Yarnell—rule discharged.

Huntingdon Boot & Shoe manufacturing Co. vs. Jacob Miess and G R Miess, agts.—judgment stricken off as to Jacob Miess, one of the defendants, but to remain against G R Miess individually.

Edmundson and Perrine vs. J M Myers, and Elizabeth Myers—judgment opened and defendants let into a defence upon plea of set off and payment.

Boak Bros. vs. Wm. S Ludden—motion for a new trial overruled and judgment directed to be entered on the verdict.

W H Markley & Co. vs. Michael Murphy—judgment opened and defendant let into a defence.

T M Barnhart vs. Spring township school district—rule discharged.

Big Fire in Lock Haven.

Lock Haven was again visited by the destroying element, fire, and the following particulars are gleaned from the Democrat:

Thursday morning between six and seven o'clock, fire broke out in the planing mill of Ely & Brawn, corner of railroad and canal on Pine street, the result of which was the total destruction of the mill, together with the office and lumber shed, with some lumber on Pine street. It is not certain how the fire caught. Some claim that it was first seen in the engine room and some say in the corner, near the canal. There was no watchman and the engineer had not arrived yet. Houses on the opposite side of the street took fire, owing to the high wind, but the firemen worked heroically and saved them from much damage. Some of the fire plugs were found to be out of order, but there was plenty of water. The steamer was out, but was not used. The conflagration made a great light and shone beautifully over the house tops and through the leaf less branches of the trees. Sparks were carried a great distance, but the roofs being covered with the light snow that fell last night there was but little danger of ignition. The fire bell rang and whistles were blown, but a great many people preferred their warm breakfast rooms or beds to the cold outside air, and did not venture forth to witness the work of destruction.

The entire loss on mill and machinery, lumber and sheds is about $15,000. The insurance will aggregate $10,500.

F M Roes, Furst & Whittaker and R W McCormick & Son suffer small losses on lumber that they had there. Although the office was completely destroyed, the safe did its duty and when opened this morning everything inside was found to be all right. This is the fourth time this mill has been burned down. Quite a number of hands are thrown out of work for the present by this misfortune. The proprietors do not yet know whether they will rebuild or not.

Millheim Murmurings.

The grippe has made its appearance in our midst, and it came without previous announcement. It has been hard at work, nevertheless, since it did come and some have enough of it already.

Dr. Musser, of Aaronsburg, has the grippe and Dr. Frank is attending to his practice. This is kind of hard on Dr. Frank as his own practice was very large.

Mr. Willis Bollinger is out with a subscription paper to raise a certain amount of money to defray the expense of building a dam across the new channel that was washed out by last June's flood. The dam is to be built just below J. Harter's orchard, so that when the creek is very high it can run into the old channel. If the dam is well built it will save the property of those residing in the southeast end of the borough. Mr. Bollinger is the same man who traveled on the floods in his own house until he was lodged against his neighbor's house and thereby saved his and his family's lives.

Death of Mrs. Boal.

On Thursday at 12.15 o'clock p m Mrs David C. Boal, expired at her home on Spring street after a lingering illness of several months. It was just one week after the death of her sister, Miss Lucy Burnside. Mrs. Boal was the daughter of the eminent Judge Thomas Burnsides and was married to Mr. David C. Boal. At the time of her death she was in her 68th year of age. She has for many years been a steadfast member of the Presbyterian church. Two children, George and Nellie, are left to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate parent.

Luck for Capt. Hunter.

Our old and esteemed friend, Capt. John A Hunter, of Halfmoon, some ten years ago, invested in lands, in Clearfield county, something like $12,000 for two hundred acres, which, up to quite recently was not a bonanza at all. Now, however, a six foot vein of No. 1 coal has been opened on it, and the captain is sure of quite a good thing, we are pleased to know. The mine is within 500 feet of the Tyrone & Clearfield railroad which is an important convenience.

Parties are now negotiating with Capt. Hunter for mining the coal upon a royalty.

Two Miners Killed.

On Monday last while working in the Sheff mine operated by R. B Wigton & Sons, at Amesville, Clearfield county, two brothers named Stacy and Al Neveling were caught under a fall of coal and instantly killed, the mass which fell on them weighing about ten tons. Stacy leaves a wife and one child. Al was a single man. Both were sons of Mrs. William Neveling, of Janesville, their father being dead a number of years.

—In Clinton county fifty-six licenses were granted this week for the sale of liquor and only four were refused, while several were held until February court for a final decision. Not much reform in that.

—James H. Rankin was appointed by the Court as auditor to examine the accounts of the prothonotary, register and recorder and make report of same to auditor general at Harrisburg.

—A son of Mr. Wm. H. Miller, who lives near Humes' mill at Boiling Springs, died on Thursday morning and was buried in the Union cemetery, this place Saturday at 9.30 o'clock a m.

—It is still too soon to begin worrying about an "ice famine." There was just as much worry last winter, but the country, nevertheless, managed to get all the ice it needed the following summer.

—The trial of Charles Brown for the murder of Wm Lovett, which had been set to commence on Thursday in Lock Haven, was postponed on account of the sickness of counsel for the defence, until February term of court.

Charged With Murder.

Monday afternoon Chief of Police Weikert and Lieutenant Kautz, of Harrisburg arrested in that city Albert Miller, who is wanted in Emporium on a charge of murder. He is accused of killing Christian Drum on August 21 last, and robbing the body of $100 and a gold watch. Miller's parents reside in Harrisburg, but he has been recently, employed at West Fairview, Dauphin county, where the officers found him. When taken into custody and confronted with Drum's photograph Miller became very nervous, but denied all knowledge of the crime. He admitted however, having been at Emporium last August, but said he did not know Drum. The prisoner had a loaded revolver in his pocket when arrested. Less than a year ago he was sent to jail three months in Harrisburg for kissing a young woman who was walking on the street. He will be taken to Emporium for trial. Christian Drum was a resident of Lycoming county.

Farmers Institute at State College.

The farmer's institute at the State College was a success in every way only in the point of attendance, and, even in this it might be said it was a success. The inclement weather kept many away that would doubtless have been there had there been nice and agreeable weather. The programme, as printed, was adhered to in almost every instance. Dr. Hale, because of illness, was unable to be present.

The sessions were all animated and interesting and will doubtless prove of incalculable benefit to those who attended them. This is a series of instructive talks that it is a credit to the State to have made provision for, and the ultimate result cannot fail to be that of great good to the farmer.

We Must Use It.

For 110 years to come no man, woman or child will write the current date without using the figure 9; for nineteen years during that period two 9's must be written—in 1899, 1909, 1919, 1929, 1939, 1949 1959, 1969, 1979, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998; and for, one year—1999—three nines will have to be set down. Of the people now living, it is safe to say that not one will ever write the date of his or her own time without using a 9. Besides minding their own p's and q's the three generations must give particular heed to their 9's. Nine has never been regarded as a particularly lucky number, but beyond question the years in which it will hold so conspicuous a place will bring benefits of undreamed-of value to the world.

—The Evangelical church on Willow Bank street is going to be a very nice and cosy edifice when completed. It will certainly stand high and dry, where the floods cannot harm the devout worshipper. It is now well under way and will likely be ready for to worship in by the first days of Spring.

Cure for Scarlet Fever.

Take one gill of alcohol in which dissolve a piece of sal-soda about as large as a large hulled walnut. Pour this mixture into a quart of boiling water. When sufficiently cool that it will not burn the skin, take the patient from the bed (the brief exposure will do no harm) and wash thoroughly from the scalp to the feet, using a sponge or soft cloth to apply the wash. Repeat this every three hours, never using the same wash the second time, Keep warm mush poultice, with just enough mustard added to redden the skin, applied to the throat. Administer inwardly sufficient magnesia to keep the bowels open. The wash will also keep the hair from coming out.

—The Wellsboro Agitator swears to the following: One day last week a woodsman felled a tree on top of the mountain above the railroad track, opposite the mouth of Four-mile run, on Pine creek. The tree did not fall as the man intended, but went toppling over the cliff, and slid off down the mountain, gaining in speed at every rod, and trimming itself of branches as it went. A freight train was coming up through the gorge, and the tree crashed endways through a box car loaded with shelled corn and went on into the creek. There was a hole the size of the log in the roof and side of the car, and the corn was distributed along the track for some distance. When the log struck the car the shock to the train was so violent that a brakeman on a rear car thought it was a collision and jumped off. The car remained on the track, however.

"LITTLE BO PEEP

had lost her sheep and couldn't tell where to find them." So the old nursery rhyme says, and it goes on to bid her "Leave them alone and they'll come home and bring their tails behind them." All this may be true of lost sheep, but if you have lost your health you cannot afford to leave that alone. It will not come back of its own accord. Some people brag that they never bother about colds. They "let them go the way they came." Alas! too often the victims go—to a consumptive's grave. Until very recently a cure for Consumption, which is universally acknowledged to be scrofula affecting the lungs, would have been looked upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it if taken in time and given a fair trial. This world-renowned remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have failed. Thousands gratefully testify to this. It is the most potent tonic, or strength restorer, alterative, or blood-cleanser, and nutritive, or flesh builder known to medical science. For Lingering Coughs, Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, "Liver Complaint" and Dyspepsia or Indigestion, it is an unequaled remedy.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM ALCOHOL — PURELY — D. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA — VINEGAR BITTERS

GRANDEST - MODERN - DISCOVERY
Triumph of Pharmacy
The only true practical
ELIXIR OF LIFE AND HEALTH.

is one that promotes digestion, improves the appetite, cleanses the liver, purifies the blood, and stimulates brain and nerves without injurious reaction, and one that may be taken alike by adult or infant. Profane compounds, made of vile rum or bad whiskey, sweetened and flavored, under the titles of bitters, tonics, &c, produce effects far worse than the disease for which they are taken.

Vinegar Bitters is a pure tonic, a nervine without being narcotic, a purifier without poison, a liver tonic without purging, and above all, a life-giving stimulant without alcohol. The only medicine with such powers in the world.

A GENUINE TEMPERANCE BEVERAGE,

far surpassing alcohol in any shape as a tonic it might be called

since it stimulates, invigorates and regulates digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion, respiration, and all the functions whereby life is maintained—we literally take in vitality in spoonfuls.

It is too much to assert that the equal of Vinegar Bitters does not exist, and no counterpart or compound with similar virtues has ever been known.

CALIFORNIA,

if remarkable for nothing else, would be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits, roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Many of them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers, rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, neuralgia, headaches, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c., &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. The discovery was partly accidental but the present

PERFECT BITTERS IS THE RESULT OF SCIENCE.

Millions of sufferers have gratefully and gladly endorsed, during the past quarter of a century the wonderful success of this

PHENOMENAL TONIC OF THE WORLD.

In order to meet every probable demand, two formulas of the same ingredients are now put up.

THE OLD STYLE IS STRONGER, SLIGHTLY BITTER, AND MORE CATHARTIC.

THE NEW STYLE, PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, AND EXPRESSLY ADAPTED TO DELICATE WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

REMEMBER,

There is no disease of low vitality, debility of functions, or nervous prostration for which in malarial diseases, cholera, consumption, internal diseases, &c., and so great is its power as a germicide that it is an

UNEQUALLED VERMIFUGE.

A book could be written of its virtues, and another of testimonials, but it is only necessary to remember its general action upon the liver, blood, brain and nerves, to realize its use in a majority of the ills that flesh is heir to, and that no family should ever be without a bottle of

THAT MILESBURG INSTALLATION.

Dr. George L Potter Post, No 261, Installs the Officers for 1890. A Brilliant Camp Fire.

On Friday evening last, January 10th, the officers of Post 261, G. A. R., of Milesburg, Pa., were publicly installed by Comrade G B Brandon, of Post 95, Bellefonte, Pa. On account of the interest manifested in the annual installations of this post, and in order to accommodate the crowds of people the Post is always compelled to move from the Post Hall to the town hall of A T Boggs. By 7.30 p. m. Boggs' Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity and the ceremonies were opened by Commander J A Green taking his place and calling the large assemblage to order when the installing officer was introduced and the ceremonies were put through with dispatch. The following named officers were installed:

Commander—A S Smith.
S V Commander—S R Watson.
Chaplain—Thomas Wilson,
Officer of Day—James Kreps,
Officer of Guard—James Bradley,
Surgeon—S H Orris,
Adjutant—A G Rager.
Surgeon Major—Jacob Smith,
Quartermaster—W H Musser,
Q M Sergeant—P H Haupt,

After the installation ceremonies were completed the Commander appointed Comrade W H Musser chairman to take charge of the camp fire. The first thing on the programme was the rendition of that patriotic song, "America," by the choir, Mr. L T Eddy as leader and his daughter, Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, presiding at the organ. Chairman Musser then started the camp fire with an appropriate address giving instances of camp fires twenty-five years ago, after which he called on the retiring Commander, J A Green. Mr. Green responded with a lively speech in which he thanked the Post and its officers for their hearty support during the past year. He stated that the financial condition of the Post was very good and that the membership had been increased during the year, while it was on only one occasion that they were called upon to perform the solemn duty of laying one of their number under the sod.

The newly installed officers were all called on for a short speech in their regular order of rank and all responded.

Miss Edith Swires, of Pittsburg, and Milesburg's young jeweler, Mr. C. H. Wright, entertained the audience with performance on the organ and flute, after which Miss Florence Orris recited "The Blue and Gray," which was well spoken and just suited to the occasion. Comrade Andrew Gregg, of Post 282, being present was called on and responded with appropriate remarks. Comrade S. H. Williams, of 95, was called on and, in order to get even with Comrade Musser for his remarks made at Post 95 camp-fire on the evening of the 6th, handled that gentleman without gloves, but Musser took it all in as a good soldier would.

Comrade J. I. Curtin and Thomas R. Benner, of 95, also made some remarks, which was followed by a recitation on "The Last Salute," by Miss Emma Jones. The choir then rendered the best selection of the evening, a song entitled, "The Flag Marches." Comrade Jones was called on and he told some amusing incidents of the 1889 Gettysburg reunion. the hardest hits falling on Comrade Kreps. A recitation, "The Kentucky Belle," was then rendered by Miss Lida Gregg. It was well spoken and greatly appreciated. At this juncture Mrs. George Sheckler and her 8-year-old daughter, Miss Elsie, entertained the audience, the former on the violin while the little maid sang four stanzas of an appropriate song, The literary part of the camp-fire and entertainment closed a with recitation by Miss Gertie Bouse on "The Lover's Sacrifice." It was well spoken and elicited much praise.

Mr. L. T. Eddy was then called on and responded with a few well timed remarks, winding up with making a motion that a collection be taken up to defray the expenses of the Post in this entertainment. This was objected to by a number of the members of the Post and the motion was laid on the table. Comrade Jones returned thanks, on behalf of the Post to the choir and all the participants in the evening's entertainment, after which it closed with the singing (by male voices only) of one of the closing odes of the order, and this ended an evening of solid entertainment and enjoyment such as can only be had in the lively little borough of Milesburg, where the G A R men knock all other places entirely out of line for the superior excellence of their entertainments.

Turkey Supper.

On this Thursday evening, January 16th, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Brown, of the Fountain House, corner of Bishop and Allegheny street, will give a first class turkey supper, in the interest and for the benefit of the new Lutheran church. This is the first time in the knowledge of the writer that there has been any patronage from the public asked for the benefit of that church and this fact in addition to the praiseworthy and holy cause should command for the occasion the most liberal patronage. And as for the supper on our own responsibility can we vouch for the superior excellence of all that will be there served. The Fountain house under the proprietorship of Mr. Brown is well known as a place where good edibles are always served and on the occasion of the coming supper rest assured they will succeed their present reputation. So go, one and all, and have a good, square meal and assist in a good cause. The price of the supper will be only 50 cents.

WILL BE TRIED NEXT COURT.

The Application to Postpone the Trial of Alfred Andrews not Granted by the Court.

Last week an application was made by the counsel for the defense in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Alfred Andrews, charged with the murder of Clara Price on the 27th of November last, for a postponement of the case until the April term of court giving as their reason insufficient funds to carry on the necessary preparations incident to a trial so soon and the expectation of being able to raise some money in a short time to more properly aid them in their work in behalf of the prisoner.

After hearing both sides argued the Court refused to grant the application and decreed that the trial must come up at the next term of court, which will be the fourth week in this month, but in view of their shortness of funds and on the strength of their expectation to raise money in the future, the court generously offered for the Commonwealth to advance them a loan of one hundred dollars to defray the necessary expense in their preparation for the trial.

The case referred to appeals to the sympathy of every parent in Centre county and promises to be a very interesting one from the fact that unless a confession of the deed be made by the man who committed it the evidence will all be circumstantial, The commonwealth is fully confident that it can establish the guilt of the party who committed the deed, while on the other hand the attorneys for the defense feel confident of having a strong case in their favor. Any mention of the possible outcome of the trial would, of course, only be conjecture therefore we forbear.

A Commendable Work.

The senior class of the Bellefonte High School are now almost ready to publish their class history in connection with a history of the High school since its beginning. The book will be written in an interesting form and will contain about one hundred pages. It will be attractively illustrated with a number of choice engravings and comic cartoons

The object of the class of '90 in publishing this work is to increase the library of the High school. The library, consisting of about sixty volumes, originated and was started by the class of '89, which gave a public entertainment for that specific purpose, and now the class of '90 hope to largely add to it from the proceeds of their work,

As the object is a worthy one we hope the public in general and parents in particular of Bellefonte and vicinity will extend to the class all aid and encouragement in this laudable undertaking, and by a liberal patronage of their book help them to establish a good library in the Bellefonte High school.

Four Interesting Items.

The Huntingdon county farmers' institute convenes in Warriorsmark, January 28 and 29.

Albert Herr, a jeweler, died of consumption at his home in Huntingdon on Saturday. He was 42 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

Early on Saturday morning fire destroyed the general merchandise store of Jacob Krugh and confectionery and dwelling of A. A. Stevens, at Orbinsonia, Huntingdon county. The loss is heavy.

Mrs. Catharine Albiter, of Carrol township, Cambria county, died on January 8 at the age of 74 years. She was the mother of Mrs. H J Campbell, of Altoona.

Will Knock the Grippe.

Dr. Meeker's speedy relief, for sale at the drug stores in this place, is we were told on Saturday an infallible cure for the grippe, in all stages. And the proprietor, Dr. Olmstead, of Williamsport, offers to refund the purchase money upon return of the empty bottle if, upon a fair trial it fails to cure what it is advertised to do. But the greatest medicine of the age, although now a little out of season, is Dr. Meeker's Blackberry Cordial, also manufactured by Dr. Olmstead This medicine has been used in Bellefonte for a couple of years and stands high in the estimation of all who have tried it. Also for sale by the leading druggists here.

An Attempt to Inflict Bodily Harm on a Policeman Results in One Man Getting Shot and Six Arrested.

On Saturday night about half past 9 o'clock a puddler by the name of "Sandy" became disorderly and was placed under arrest by policeman Foulk. The disturbance occurred in the neighborhood of the Diamond. Several of the puddler's friends attempted to interfere but were held back by Chief of Police Garis. Foulk took his man all right until about half way out Water street to the lock up when he suddenly resisted, refusing to go any farther. Observing a man close behind Foulk called on him for assistance when he rushed in and crying, "Now Sandy, let us kill the ——— ———," grabbed the policeman and threw him over the fence into the creek. Foulk caught the fence and saved himself from going head foremost on the rocks, else he would have been killed. Seeing he had caught himself they kicked his hand loose and he dropped down on the rocks, without any injury to himself however.

The two men then ran away and went over on Thomas street where there were a dozen or more of their companions. Foulk crawled out of his perilous position and followed as fast as he could. When he had almost overtaken them he was accosted and told not to go up as they had a knife and were threatening to kill. Nothing daunted, however, he did go up when the big man, Thompson by name, said, "you go on "Sandy" I will settle him," and made a lurch at the policeman with his knife. Foulk, to save himself, shot the man in the leg, when there was a general rush for him by the entire crowd and cries of "kill him" "lynch him" etc., were generally indulged in. Several caught him but policeman Garis coming up beat them off with his club until he broke it and was left unarmed. Then the two were obliged to withdraw from the unequal contest under cover of Foulk's revolver. Aid was sent for and the Sheriff, constable, and detective Mullen responded. With this assistance six arrests were made, in addition to the man who was shot who was taken to the poor house, and all parties were put in jail. It was afterwards said that the parties had made the boast that they were coming up here to "clean out the town."

A hearing is being held this afternoon before Justice Foster.

In Memory of Capt. Wm. White.

Captain William White was born in Mifflin county, Pa., on July 23, 1813, and died on January 2, 1890, being in his 77th year.

In 1827 Mr. White went to Clarion county and worked with an uncle for a few years after which he drove team from Clarion to Centre county, hauling iron and other marketable material (this was before the advent of the iron horse). From that place he moved to Centre county and worked for James McClellan, hauling wood first but finally going to Snow Shoe and superintending the mining of coal. In 1841 he began boating for General Irvin from Milesburg to Philadelphia on the Bald Eagle canal. In a few years he went in partnership with the Curtin's, and in all spent about fifteen years on the Bald Eagle canal.

In 1846 he married Miss Lova Lucas, daughter of Perry J Lucas, of Snow Shoe. In 1849 he began teaching school and this vocation he followed until 1857, during which time he taught at Holt's Hollow, Snow Shoe and Kylertown. (Just here let us say that the way Mr. White acquired his education was by working during the summer and attending school in the winter-mostly at Bellefonte Academy. This, of course, was in his young days—ED.) In 1857 he went to Snow Shoe and engaged in the hotel business. This did not prove to his taste and he then purchased land in Cooper, Clearfield county, but soon disposed of it and bought a property in Pine Glen and moved there. He then farmed and engaged in the lumbering business, cutting and sawing and shipping.

A few years ago his saw mill was burnt by forest fires; his house he lived in and three tenant houses were also destroyed. Nothing daunted, however, with his misfortunes, he erected new buildings, and lived there until his death. Two years ago he was compelled to give up work and for more than six months he had been confined to his room.

Mr. White bore his long siege of sickness with great patience, talking little to anyone. He recognized that his end was near and sometime before he died told his family that his end was near but that he was ready to go. He was a constant reader, could converse on most any topic, was a staunch republican and very kind to the poor. He was honest and upright in all his dealings and at all times gave freely to the churches and all charitable institutions. His hospitality to the stranger was never questioned, he was never known to turn a man away from his door hungry.

There are left four daughters and a a wife to mourn his loss.

His oldest child, a son, died when but two years old. His oldest daughter, Lucy is married to Joseph Yothers and lives near Karthaus. Rachael is married to Nelson Watson and lives at the homestead at Pine Glen. Mattie is married to Oscar Holt and lives near Snow Shoe. Dora, the youngest of the family, is teaching school near Unionville. The father, husband and citizen will be greatly missed, not only in the home circle but in the entire community.

The funeral occurred on Sunday, January 5th, the remains being interred in Askey's cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. J W Bedford, of the M E church.

Farewell father, thou hast left us
And thy loss we deeply feel,
But 'tis God who has bereft us—
He can all our sorrows heel.

D. G. W.

FLEMING, Pa., January 13, 1890.

Personal Pencilings.

Judge Furst was in Tyrone on Monday

Dr. Van Valin, of Unionville, was in Bellefonte Friday.

Mr. A. A. Dale came home from Altoona on Saturday.

Mr. George I. Cornelius, of Lovevevill was in Bellefonte Friday.

Mr. Lyle, of Houserville, was a caller at this office on Thursday.

Mr. J H Griffin, of Stormstown, came to Bellefonte on the 4.30 p. m. train on Thursday.

Mr. Thomas Collins, of this place, was registered at the Park Hotel, in Williamsport, on Friday.

Revenue collector E. R. Chambers, Esq., transacted business in Loek Haven on Wednesday.

Mr. J H Mitchell, of Lemont, was in Bellefonte Saturday and did not forget to call at this office.

Mrs. James Pierpont and child of Pittsburgh, were arrivals on the 4.30 p. m. train on Monday evening.

Mr. Joseph L. Holter, one of Howard's enterprising citizens, was a pleasant caller at this office Tuesday morning.

Miss Ida Garner, of State College, returned home this week from Philipsburg, where she spent her vacation.

Mr. W. H. Musser, the insurance agent, returned this morning from a two days' trip through the southern part of the county.

Mr. T J Gates, of Tyrone, cashier in the Blair county bank at that place, spent a few hours in Bellefonte on Wednesday evening.

A. N. Bierly, of Milesburg, has returned to Loydsville on the Bell's Gap railroad where he is acting as assistant telegraph operator.

Miss Edith Clark, of Eagleville, is recovering from the severe injuries she received a few days ago, and which was noted in this paper at the time, by being thrown from a horse.

This office was on Friday afternoon favored with a call from Mr. and Mrs. William H. Neff, of Howard. They came in to see the modus operandi of the "art preservative" and it was a pleasure to have them come. Come in again, friends.

A Washington dispatch printed on Saturday says: "General D. H. Hastings and Mrs. Hastings reached Washington this evening, and drove directly to the residence of Senator and Mrs. Quay, whose guests they are to be for some days. Senator Quay extended the invitation to General Hastings some time since, and this visit will put an end to the report that the relations of the two Republican leaders are not as cordial or friendly as they had been."

Just Our Sentiments.

A lady correspondent writes: "I am tired of men who don't take care of women." So are we. So are we. Not only tired, but weary clean through. When a man ceases to take care of woman he is lost. His self-respect is lost. His love for his mother, sister, cousins and aunts is lost. The deference due the weaker sex to him is a stranger. The shielding arm that should be outstretched in her defense and on her behalf is a limp, feeble, muscleless thing. When man doesn't take care of woman he forgets that 'way back—long, long ago—when he was a weak, helpless, mewling and maowing little thing, the tender hand of a mother cared for him through day and night, the love-light in a mother's eyes grew all the brighter for the pride she had in him and the care she took of him; he forgets—well, he forgets pretty much everything that could make a man of him. In short when man doesn't take care of woman he ceases to be a man. There are a heap more things that could be said on this subject, but this is enough for one seance.—Philipsburg Journal.

—The Altoona Tribune of Tuesday says: "A new Methodist Episcopal society has been organized at Eldorado, having been perfected last night. A gracious revival has been going on there for several days. Up to date there are twenty-three conversions and last night there were sixteen persons forward at the altar of prayer. Eldorado is an appointment on the Altoona circuit of which Rev. A. L. Miller is pastor." All of this young gentleman's Bellefonte friends will be glad to hear of his success in his calling.

—Wm. P. Duncan and family, of Philipsburg, but very well known in this place, departed for Florida on Tuesday. They will make Zellwood their home while there which will probably be several months.

REV. DR. EDWARD MCGLYNN.

Lectured for Two and One Half Hours on Tuesday Night to About 300 People.

"How to Abolish Poverty." One would naturally think that a talk or lecture on the above subject would draw a large crowd of poverty-stricken people to find out how to abolish that poverty. But in that surmise one would be mistaken, for among the entire audience there were very few in absolute poverty while the majority of those present constituted the bone and sinew of the financial status of Bellefonte industry.

Mr. R. C. Irvin introduced the speaker of the evening at exactly 8 o'clock. Mr. McGlynn arose and said that he would speak on the great social problem—the labor question. How all persons may be able to employ themselves with an adequate return for their labor. "How to Abolish poverty!" Many persons are shocked at the assertion that poverty should or could be abolished. They call it sacrilege.

It is no sacrilege to abolish poverty as poverty is a fruitful source of crime, vice and degredation. It is a fruitless school of blasphemy and sin and the sooner it is abolished the more God-like and righteous men will become.

We are serving religion well, if we justify God's way to man and it was never intended to be God's way—this poverty among the many and unbounded wealth among the few. Many persons are being estranged from religion by the dogmatism in its teachings by so-called preceptors of men.

Whatever else you do have no quarrel with sweet religion. It is virtually cutting the ground from under your own feet. Acknowledge the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of your fellowman. There are two kinds of religion natural and revealed. There must be natural religion or there can be no revealed religion. We should and do rise from the visible things of God to the invisible things, even to the contemplation of the Godhead. Vast as are the conquests of human science they are not enough to satisfy the insatiate craving of man in his searching after the truth.

Is life worth the living? Is the burden worth the bearing? Oh! surely yes, is, when the whole earth can look up and acknowledge the creator as God the father. To often in the name of religion men teach sayings entirely contrary to religion. There are men who do not believe in the teachings of religion because of the poverty they are made to suffer. It is the old story of the lamb and the lion lying down together when there will be perfect peace. Yes, when the lion lays down with the lamb inside of it then there will be perfect peace. Take away the thought of God and the lambs of society have no choice with the lions.

The way and the only correct way to abolish poverty is to take away from men this greed; this ever craving, grasping greed. Take it away and man will regard his fellow-man as a brother and all will work together for the good of the other. There is plenty and to spare in this virgin continent to give to all with poverty to none. Why then not abolish the cursed poverty and rejoice one with another. It remains with the people to do it. To abolish poverty you must abolish the rights and privileges of monopoly and corporation. For the privileges they enjoy or the land that they hold, which is as much yours as it is theirs, they should be made to pay tax enough on to compel them to sell it or improve it. In either case it would make labor plentier and at better remuneration.

We regret that we have neither space nor time to follow the learned Doctor through his entire interesting and very instructive lecture but we cannot. His one point that he wished to emphasize was that of single taxation. Take off tax from the necessaries of life and put on tax on the lands held unimproved and compel the improvement thereof and the accursed poverty that now seems the very rotteness and ruination of our country would be abolished. The Doctor is very learned, oratorical and entertaining. He held the undivided attention of the entire audience for the full time of two hours and a half and this in itself was proof sufficient of the truths of the doctrine he teaches.

—Johnstown Tribune: while on a relic-hunting expedition on Sunday, a lad named Edward Wagoner found a bunch of keys, a spoon, and a revolver. There were four keys in the bunch, and they were attached to a ring on which there was also a plate with the name of Mrs. H. M. Ogle engraven on it. The keys had the appearance of having been in fire. They were found on the west bank of the Stonycreek, a short distance above the stone bridge. The place of finding and the appearance of the keys would seem to indicate the horrible possibility that Mrs. Ogle was among those who were imprisoned in the burning wreckage. These are the only traces ever found of Mrs. Ogle.

—The new wrap that now encircles the fashionable female form is a model of simplicity, and anybody can make it. You just get a blanket, put a draw string in one end and a puckering string in the middle, and behold, the thing is done. It looks nice, too.—Philipsburg Journal. Oh, how Cann you!
